Important Election In England

Candidates Churchill, Conservative; Attlee, Laborite, Now the Prime Minister

LONDON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Britons formed the most important queue of the past five years as they lined up today to mark their "X" for or against re-electing their Socialist government.

A record vote in the national elections was expected as lines formed early and steady streams began moving through polling stations all over this island kingdom.

The choice before more than 34,000,000 voters:

Re-election of Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Laborites, pledged to put still more industries under state control; or a return to the Conservative rule of wartime premier Winston Churchill, who promised to halt nationalization but keep most of Britain's welfare state security measures.

Few women, long accustomed to queuing in shops, turned out for the early voting. One of them, however, was Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of the Conservative party leader who hopes to unseat the Labor government.

Churchill Smiling

Mrs. Churchill was smiling as she arrived at the polling station at St. Stephens hall in the Westminster district of London.

Churchill himself arrived to vote at St. Stephen's a couple of hours later. He was cheered as he waved his familiar "V" sign and stopped to pat the cheek of a little girl who handed him some flowers.

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, the Labor party's chief political strategist, was among the first of the party leaders to vote. He cast his ballot near his suburban Eltham home and then drove to his headquarters in the Lewisham of London, where he is a candidate.

Attlee and his wife already had voted by mail in the Westminster district, which includes the Prime Minister's official home at No. 10 Downing street.

Prime Minister Cheered

The Prime Minister and Mrs. Attlee were cheered by a large crowd when they arrived at Labor party headquarters in Walthamstow West, the working class section of London where Attlee is a candidate.

Attlee shook hands with workmen repairing the street and joked: "I feel fine and I'm glad the weather's fine. Otherwise my opponent would blame me for the weather."

No incidents had been reported. But London's famous "bobbies" were primed for huge crowds which are expected to jam Trafalgar Square and Picadilly Circus tonight to watch election results flash from electric signs.

Most of the early voters were workmen coming off the night shift or others who report to work while the rest of the nation is still getting up.

The voting was expected to be close. Victory or defeat for the Laborites—in power since July, 1945—hangs chiefly on domestic issues.

Neither Would Help

For those people of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland neither party promised any relaxation of the bleak austerity under which Britons have lived since wartime. And no party has suggested dropping the ambitious social services established after the Laborites came to power in 1945.

So the choice for Mr. and Mrs John Bull is based on which kind of government they think will keep the breadwinner employed, lower their heavy taxes, boost their salaries and cut their living costs.

Many Britons were at some of the more than 5,000 polling stations before opening time in the gray winter dawn at 7 o'clock this morning (2 a.m. EST).

Workers in industrial Birmingham were stopping in at the polls on their way to work. In several London sections voters were scratching their ballots at the rate of three a minute.

In London and many parts of Eastern England the voters had dry weather. But in Western England and in Scotland many of them had to trudge through cold winter drizzles and nasty mists to cast their ballots.

Winter Slaps Ice And Snow Across Nation

Impedes Travel by Motor Car And Air; Walking Hazardous

By the Associated Press

Winter slapped a slippery punch of ice and snow across wide areas of the eastern half of the nation today.

The snow, sleet and rain impeded motor and air travel. Icy sidewalks made walking hazardous. There were hundreds of accidents and many traffic fatalities were blamed on the glazed streets and highways.

The sleet and snow hit hard over the northeastern part of the country as a rather intense storm moved northeastward across Lake Ontario. Southern New England was blanketed with the second biggest snowfall of the season, with falls measuring up to eight inches in some areas. The falls in the northern region measured were up to a depth of two to four inches. The snow turned to sleet and rain over most of the area during the night.

Snow, Sleet, Rain

Sleet, snow and freezing rains pelted New York state. New York City's rain and sleet made streets and sidewalks treacherous and slowed subway service along its above-ground routes and railroads. The Idlewild and La Guardia airports were closed.

Snow in New York

Snow and sleet in western New York made highways dangerous and clogged streets in Buffalo. Snow mixed with freezing rain fell in northern New York state.

Heavy fog over the Baltimore area last night forced the cancellation of all flights at the municipal airport.

Much of Pennsylvania was coated with ice after yesterday's steady freezing rain. Last night's church Lenten services were cancelled because of icy roads at Easton, Pa. Four to seven inches of snow were forecast for the mountain areas today.

Sidewalks in Newark, N. J. were a sheet of ice from freezing rainfalls and most pedestrians walked in the streets. Highway conditions were extremely bad and many accidents were reported. An eight year old boy was killed when his sled ran into a car.

The rain belt extended from Pennsylvania southward into Florida. Light snow was reported in Ohio, southern Michigan and from Wisconsin westward to the northern Rockies. Chicago's heaviest fall of the season, nearly five inches, helped to send the mercury down to 10 above today. Fair weather prevailed from the central and lower Mississippi valley westward to California.

Temperatures were mild from near Washington, D. C., southward to Florida. Elsewhere throughout the country readings were near normal evels. The only sub-zero temperatures were in sections of North Dakota and northern Minnesota. Today's low was 13 below zero at Pembina, North Dakota.

Presenting Washington Elm Marker

An impressive ceremony, highlighted with the unveiling of a bronze tree marker, to be placed under the Washington Elm, was held Wednesday afternoon on Washington's birthday in the upstairs east room of the Sedalia Public Library, before a group of about 50 persons.

Miss Nettie Lamm, who was president of Sorosis when the Washington Elm was purchased 18 years ago by Sorosis and the Osage Chapter D. A. R., and then planted in the Sedalia Public Library lawn, just east of the library entrance, presented the marker to Mrs. Elza Berry, president of the library board.

The marker, which will be placed under the tree in the near future, has the following inscription on it: "Washington Elm. This is from the parent tree under which George Washington took command of the Continental Army on July 3, 1775—presented to the Sedalia Public Library—placed by Osage Chapter D. A. R. and Sorosis—1950." So after being un-recognized by many Sedalia citizens for the past 18 years, the Washington tree will finally gain recognition. It is the smallest tree growing in the front lawn of the library.

Pledge Of Allegiance

Mrs. A. L. Walter, regent of the Osage Chapter, called the meeting to order and members of the two organizations, library staff and board members and a few special guests, joined in repeating the pledge of allegiance to the American flag. Miss Jessie Browneller, read a prayer by George Washington.

The history of the Washington Elm was related by Mrs. A. M. Hoffman, who said a tree sprout was purchased in the spring of 1932 through the efforts of Dr. J. E. Cannaday for $15, and then planted in the library lawn.

Escapee Goes To Trial Today

McALESTER, Okla., Feb. 23—(AP)—George Kimes, last of the notorious southwest badmen, went on trial in district court today on a charge of escaping from the state prison here.

He waived a jury trial and his case is being heard by Judge W. A. Lackey.

Kimes escaped July 2, 1948, and was arrested last year in Burns, Ore., when an amateur detective saw his picture in a detective magazine.

He was under a 50-year sentence following conviction on a charge of armed robbery.

X-Ray Clinic For Students At Court House

Equipment Brought To City by County Tuberculosis Society

The mass X-ray program sponsored by the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society started Wednesday at the court house at which time students of Smith-Cotton and Hubbard high schools were X-rayed free of charge. The teachers, secretaries and janitors were also X-rayed.

The total number X-rayed on Wednesday was 712. This morning students from the parochial schools of the city and from the surrounding rural schools were swarming into the court house where the machine is now located and were being X-rayed as fast as cards could be made out by Mrs. Alice Crawford, secretary of the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society and her assistants. They then went to the next room where they were X-rayed as quickly as the machine could be adjusted to the individual heighth and the picture taken, which only took a few seconds.

Open to Public

This afternoon the X-ray program was opened to the public and the program will continue for the general public tonight, Friday and Saturday with hours being in the morning from 10:00 to 12:00 o'clock; afternoon 1:00 to 5:00 o'clock and night 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock.

The X-ray equipment of the National X-ray Association was brought to Sedalia by the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society by means of the seal sale conducted each Christmas. It is operated by Frank Rano, X-ray technician supervisor and James Hann, his assistant, both of Orange, N. J., who do such X-ray work in all of the forty-eight states.

City Scales Bring Low Income But Are Important to the City

Revenue collected from the city scales is one of the lowest city incomes, yet the scales are an important factor to the city, as it accommodates the farmer and the business man, and attracts strangers to this city, who might otherwise drive to another city where they could weigh a load of corn or hay.

Monies collected from the scales and city parking lot during the calendar year of 1949 totaled $1,574.65, and goes into the general operating fund of the city. Fees of 10 cents, 20 cents and 50 cents are collected from the scales, the prices varying according to the size of loads weighed. A gross load of under 10,000 pounds brings a fee of 10 cents. Over that weight, 20 cents. All loaded semi-trailers bring in a fee of 50 cents.

The present scales handle a load up to 49,000 gross pounds, and are tested at least once a year. The platform is 10 feet wide and 30 feet long. The last time the scales were inspected, they were approved and no repairs were recommended. The scales unit was built by the W.P.A. in the years 1936 and 1937. Prior to this construction, old scales were located just south of the present scales.

Jack Mullaley Weighmaster

Jack L. Mullaley has been weighmaster for the past four years, by appointment. He operates the scales six days a week, from 7:00 o'clock in the morning until 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon. After hours up until 9:00 o'clock at night and on Sundays and holidays, firemen quartered at the fire station just across the alley from the scales, operate the weighing apparatus. Of course, when the firemen are on a run, the customer has to wait until the firemen return.

Mr. Mullaley said drivers of trucks loaded with hay and corn are the biggest customers, followed with coal trucks. Trucks loaded with poultry, eggs and glass also bring a lot of business. He said the Sedalia glass plant weighs nearly all its loads there. He added that gross loads of eggs totaled as high as 48,000 pounds. Occasionally, loaded trucks will pull in to get weighed and they are too heavy. So he said, we have to split the load. We do that by weighing the front end of the truck and then the rear end, he said. He pointed out that many trucks would drive up just to check the weight to keep with-

Dead Prior to Air Injection, To be Defense

Doctor Said To Have Admitted 'Mercy Killing'

By Henry L. Supple

MANCHESTER, N.H., Feb. 23—(AP)—Dr. Hermann N. Sander's chief defense lawyer asserted today that the country doctor will show that the cancer-ridden woman he is accused of killing was dead before he injected air into her veins.

White-haired Attorney Louis E. Wyman gave the first hint of the possible defense strategy after the prosecution told the 13-man jury that Sander admitted taking the life of the suffering woman at the pleading of her husband.

The indication of defense strategy that Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 59, may have been dead before she was given injections came in a question put to Dr. Harold L. Loverud, president of the staff at Hillsboro county hospital.

Mrs. Borroto died at that hospital on Dec. 4, after wasting from 140 to 80 pounds. Dr. Sander was arrested 25 days later when records librarian at the hospital noted reference to air injections on her medical chart.

Attorney General Objects

Attorney-General William L. Phinney leaped to his feet and objected to Wyman's question indicating that Mrs. Borroto was dead before given an injection.

Phinney said he would object "unless it is to be supported by evidence."

Wyman promptly told the court: "In due course we expect to do that, your honor."

The question Wyman put came after he suggested that Mrs. Borroto had been seen by a Dr. Albert Snay on the morning of her death—but before the arrival of Dr. Sander in her room.

Referring to Dr. Snay, Wyman asked:

"If he pronounced her dead, he being on the committee when the matter was reviewed, he would be able to give pretty reliable information to the committee, would he not?"

Dr. Loverud replied: "Yes."

Hospital Committee

The committee referred to by Wyman is a hospital committee which makes monthly checks on the records of all patients who have died.

Phinney had told the jury that "The motive behind any determined and premeditated killing has no bearing whether it be good or bad—the results are the same."

This remark followed Phinney's statement quoting Dr. Sander that Mrs. Borroto's husband had pleaded with him to administer the injections.

"Of so many mercy killings, no such thing exists under law," the prosecutor said in his 54-minute opening statement. "Such action is homicide."

Phinney also said the evidence would show that the 41-year-old country physician administered 10 cubic centimeters of air intravenously four times, and that the patient died within 10 minutes.

He quoted Dr. Sander as saying that she passed away "peacefully and quietly" after the injections.

May Contend Patient Was Dead

During cross-examination of the first state witness—Dr. Harold I. Loverud, president of the staff of the hospital — Defense Counsel Louis E. Wyman indicated the defense may contend the patient already was dead when the injections were made.

The white-haired defense lawyer asked Loverud if another doctor—Albert Snay—had seen her at 11:15 a. m. on the day she died before Dr. Sander entered her room before any air injections, and then pronounced her dead: also would he have been able to give reliable information?

Dr. Loverud replied "yes."

MoPac Train Is Derailed

PIEDMONT, Mo., Feb. 23—(AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad's fast Texas to St. Louis passenger train No. 8 was derailed last night when a rock slide fell in a cut just south of Gads Hill and the train smashed into it.

No one was injured although both units of the diesel locomotive and a storage baggage car were derailed. Gads Hill is about 120 miles south of St. Louis.

Other Missouri Pacific trains between Poplar Bluff and St. Louis were rerouted over the Belmont and Cairo branches of the railroad from Bismarck to Poplar Bluff.

A spokesman for the division superintendent said today the track probably will not be cleared until early tonight.

J. P. Carroll of St. Louis, was engineer of the train and Jess Lovelace of Poplar Bluff was fireman. W. C. Missey of De Soto was conductor.

Washington's Birthday a Holiday to Him

CHICAGO, Feb. 23—(AP)—High Glover, 34, drove his car into the Loop yesterday and parked it under a sign which read: "No Parking Except Saturdays, Sunday and Holidays."

When he returned and found a traffic ticket he called police. An officer told him he got the ticket because the police did not consider Washington's birthday a holiday.

Glover called the city hall to get a legal opinion from the corporation counsel. The switchboard operator told him it was legal holiday and the corporation counsel wasn't in his office.

Glover says he is going to appeal to police commissioner John Prendergast.

Important Events In World News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The house passed today a fair employment practices (FEPC) bill stripped of enforcement provisions.

The vote was 241 to 176.

The bill, far short of what President Truman wanted, now goes to the senate. The house action came after a debate that started at noon yesterday and ran into early this morning.

The bill that finally emerged from the house fell so far short of what Mr. Truman wanted that many of its original supporters refused to vote for it. Southern Democrats opposed it solidly. They were largely responsible for having knocked all the enforcement teeth from the proposal.

It expresses a policy that there should be no discrimination against the minority groups in job opportunities and seeks to avert such discrimination through persuasion and education. It provides no penalties for anyone violating its major provisions.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Nine Missouri representatives, all Democrats, today voted for passage of a house measure for a fair employment practices commission.

They were Bolling, Christopher, Carnahan, Irving, Sullivan, Karst, Karsten and Welch.

Against the measure were Cannon, Jones and McGee, all Democrats and Short, Republican.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The United States is reported about ready to grant an emergency loan to Yugoslavia. The idea is to keep the Yugoslav economy from being strangled by a trade boycott led by Russia.

American officials said the loan — which would be this country's second to Marshal Tito since he broke with Moscow — would be relatively small. It might be $10,000,000 or $15,000,000, to be used for the purchase of U. S. cotton, petroleum and other urgently needed raw materials.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Evidence piled up today that the Truman administration is dead set against seeking an atomic peace conference with Russia at this time.

From President Truman himself came a warning that the nation "must not be misled by the vain hope of finding quick and easy solutions" for the world's difficulties — of which the atomic arms race is one of the greatest.

St. Louis Makes Appeal for Coal

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23—(AP)—St. Louis hospitals, their coal supplies all but exhausted, have directed a special appeal for relief to heads of two striking mine unions.

In telegrams last night to John B. Marchiando, president of the Progressive Mine Workers, and John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, the greater St Louis hospital council said:

"Hospital situation in St. Louis area desperate. Some using last of supply of coal today (Wednesday) with no relief in sight. Others have one week's supply Urge that you arrange means of furnishing hospitals with coal, either by opening mines or by permitting existing supply at mine to be hauled by hospitals with protection guaranteed by union."

Supplies at the hospitals range from two to ten days, a survey indicated. All have reduced heat to a minimum and are conserving light in an effort to stretch their dwindling fuel supplies. Other institutions, such as orphanages and homes for the aged, also were affected.

Telephone Strike Is Postponed

Both Company and Union Workers Agreeable to Truman's Proposal

By Sterling F. Green

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The threat of a nationwide breakdown in telephone service, scheduled for tomorrow, has been lifted by union acceptance of a presidential appeal for a 60-day bargaining truce.

"We will bargain every day, 24 hours a day during that period in seeking a peaceful settlement," said President Joseph A. Beirne of the CIO Communications Workers of America.

President Truman asked that service remain uninterrupted while work goes on under present wage, hour and other conditions. Some Bell System companies accepted promptly; others were expected to do so.

Beirne quickly polled his executive board on yesterday's White House proposal. He announced the decision last night, notifying Mr. Truman by wire that the union recognizes its obligation to the "public interest and welfare."

Hope to Settle

"We have a sincere desire to resolve the issues through collective bargaining in an open, straightforward manner," Beirne said in a statement.

"In accepting President Truman's request for postponement of the strike, we take one more step in our continuing effort to preserve industrial peace."

The long lines division of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. wired the President it would be glad to continue bargaining "in a sincere effort to settle the dispute." The added time, it said, should be "useful in reaching an agreement."

Similar word came from the Western Electric Co., one of the key companies in the dispute, and others. In Atlanta, the Southern Bell Telephone Company went a bit further, and suggested the truce run until June 5.

Strike Set for Friday

The strike of 100,000 telephone workers had been set for 6 a.m., local time, tomorrow. Another 120,000 phone workers were due to join the walkout on March 1, when their contracts expire; these, too, are covered by the truce.

The President offered the "active assistance of the federal mediation and conciliation service" throughout the bargaining and asked for an "earnest" and "extensive" search for peaceful settlement terms.

But the bargaining was off to a bad start. A stalemate involving Western Electric was still unbroken after 48 hours of effort by Mediation Director Cyrus S. Ching.

Ching arranged for negotiations here, starting Tuesday, to cover the manufacturing workers in Western Electric, which is A.T. & T.'s manufacturing subsidiary.

Company Balks

The company balked, saying it would talk only in New York, where earlier unsuccessful talks had been held. The union refused to return its negotiators to New York.

Ching, deeply involved in the coal crisis as well, had found no solution to this stalemate today. Western Electric is important in the strike maneuvers, because its far-flung installation and sales force can set picket lines at every major exchange. Telephone operators, under CWA's charter, would be bound to respect them.

Beirne exempted only one CWA division from the White House truce agreement. Employes of the New Jersey Bell Company, who are barred by state law from striking, are engaged in state-sponsored mediation and should continue it, Beirne told Mr. Truman.

The President had sent his message to 25 local and national officers of CWA across the continent, and to 19 officials of A.T & T.'s divisions and affiliated companies.

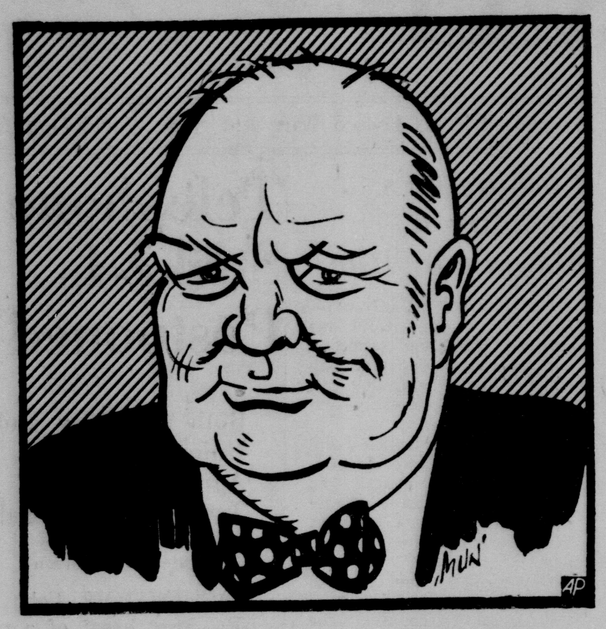
Abandon Search For Five Airmen

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Ground search was abandoned today for five airmen who parachuted last week from a blazing B-36 air force bomber.

The Royal Canadian air force, announcing end of the search on heavily-timbered Princess Royal island, said a high-speed launch, an airplane and three helicopters would continue to patrol the sea and shorelines.

The U. S. airmen were part of a crew of 17 which parachuted from the ice-coated burning B-36 shortly before midnight Feb. 13. Twelve were rescued.

Opposite Numbers in British Election



AP Newsfeatures

Winston Churchill and Clement Attlee, leaders of the opposing parties in the British election today Feb. 23, come from similar social classes. Attlee, a lawyer and son of a lawyer, might be called upper middle class. Churchill, the grandson of a duke, is an aristocrat. Both attended the privileged public schools of England. Each was a leader in his party at an early age and each held various cabinet posts when his party was in power. But here the similarity ends.

Churchill has been the dashing soldier, trained at Sandhurst military academy. He is the brilliant writer and orator who has command of the telling phrase. He is the Conservative who backs the idea of empire.

At 75, he is more than eight years older than his opponent. Paunchy, with heavy jowls and a rugged jaw, he symbolizes John Bull.

As a soldier, he helped Spain quell rebels in Cuba in 1895 and fought on India's frontier in 1897. He was on the Nile in 1898 and in the Boer war in 1899-1900. He first went to parliament in 1900. He was first lord of the admiralty in 1911-15. And he was an officer in World War I, fighting for part of 1915 and 1916. Then he went back to the government in 1917.

In World War II he became the leader and symbol of his country's fight to defeat Hitler. As the days of appeasement drew to a close he again became first lord of the admiralty.

When war came he was called as prime minister.

His coalition government drew all groups of the nation together. His flaming oratory kept the confidence of the people and stirred his future Allies.

After the fall of France, he grimly kept Britain and the empire in the fight — alone.

He had close ties with President Roosevelt and later worked with Joseph Stalin.

"I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat," he said when he became prime minister. And after Dunkerque: "We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills, we shall never surrender."

But when Germany had been beaten, he lost the election to Attlee, the Socialist, who had been his deputy prime minister. The people, observer agreed, rejected the Conservative, not the war leader.

Churchill, his cigar still clamped in his teeth, his pudgy fingers still making the V for victory sign, joined the opposition. He slashed at Labor programs, scoffed at moves which, he said, broke up the empire.

Still the Conservative, he fights for a comeback against the tide of socialism.

Attlee is the scholar who took honors at Oxford. As a young man he joined the Socialist party when it was "not quite respectable." He went into the London slums to see how workingmen lived and himself worked for a time on the docks. Then he went into social work.

With a brush mustache, Attlee is slight. He smokes a pipe in contrast to the Churchill cigar. His speaking voice is thin and halting. Some observers say he is not brilliant. But they also speak of his clear thinking.

As a young man he worked in settlement houses, talked on street corners, taught in Socialist schools He said he was a pacifict, but he enlisted in World War I and became a captain in 1915. When war was over he went into politics.

He worked closely with the Labor party when it was the opposition. And when it took over the government in the 1920s he held a series of vital posts.

When the coalition government took power at the start of World War II, he was one of the first Laborites asked to join it. Soon, he was deputy prime mniister. As such he often appeared in the shadow of the brilliant Churchill. He worked loyally to help win the war. But once Germany was beaten his party got an election and won full control.

The Socialist program started with the nationalization of the Bank of England. It went on to take over fuel and transport. A cradletograve welfare program included free health service. Other sectors of the economy were marked out for taking over Attlee worked quietly to push the plans through.

He found England facing trouble because the cost of war had wrecked vital parts of the economy. His ministers made austerity the rule. In some instances rations were lower than they had been during the war. But Attlee was grim in his drive to make the new England a Socialist country.

Critics were bitter. Attlee had no drama of war with which to answer them. He had no genius for oratory to present his ideas. He stuck to his logic and his quiet work. Things got done, but critics talked on. The date at which an election would have to be held was near. Attlee set the date.

Today he fights to hold power. He stands on his record and the ideas he found in the Limehouse slum district in early life.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief — help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

'Confusion Agent' Charge

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The U. S. Army announced today it had arrested a young Russian woman described as a "possible Soviet confusion agent."

An army spokesman defined a "confusion agent" as a person who spreads confusion and makes trouble for the occupation forces, usually as a cover-up for others who do actual spying.

"Nine times out of ten a confusion agent deliberately lets himself be picked up, tells a dozen different stories, all untrue, to divert the attention of the authorities from the real espionage agents," the spokesman said.

The announcement said the woman, Regina Rowiskerja, had been arrested Feb. 14 at Heidelberg, the U. S. Army's European headquarters, after being shadowed by American agents since Nov. 15.

She was arraigned before the U. S. district court in Frankfurt Tuesday afternoon, the announcement said, on charges of failing to produce valid identity documents. She was taken to Preungesheim women's prison at Frankfurt pending her trial.

tory of the Sedalia Public Library and said this year was the 50th anniversary of placing the cornerstone of the library, and next year would be the 50th anniversary of opening the doors to the public. She said, May 20, 1895 was the first regular meeting of the Sedalia Free Public Library, and the early library was in the old court house. She further pointed out that in 1898, it was learned that Andrew Carnegie was contributing money for libraries throughout the country, and following a request, $50,000 was donated for the library here.

Introductions Made

The board members of the library were introduced by Mrs. Berry.

They are: Mrs. Harve Terry, Lawrence Barnett, Herbert Zoernig, Ray Hunt, A. M. Hoffman, Victor Winnberg. Miss Hazel Gray, vice-president and Philip McLaughlin were unable to attend the ceremony. She then introduced the library staff: Miss Mary Kay Englis', Miss Marie Fritz, Miss Yvonne Leiter, Mrs. Virginia Wickliffe, Miss Doris Poulter and Fred J. Poulter. Special guests introduced were Mayor Julian H. Bagby, George H. Scruton, Jr., whose father, the late Col. G. H. Scruton was a president of the library board for many years, C. E. Messerly, Jr., who also represented his father, who was an active board member, and Dr. A. L. Walter. Mrs. Berry also paid tribute to the late Mrs. E. B. Burrowes, who was a member on the library board for many years.

Miss English made an announcement to the fact that the library has recently purchased a new record film reader, very similar to the one used by the Sedalia Democrat company. She pointed out that the recordak was purchased mainly for two reasons, the film of all the papers on file were in fire proof containers and insured the safety of valuable old papers, and it releases space in the library. She said three months of newspapers could be seen on one roll of film. She invited all those present to see the machine demonstrated, following the meeting.

Tea and individual cakes were served to the group, after the meeting was adjourned by Mrs. Walter. Mrs. Harold Dean of Sorosis and Mrs. A. L. Walter, of D. A. R. poured tea. Waited Three Hours, Then Too Weary to Talk

VAN NUYS, Calif., Feb. 23 — (AP) — Kept waiting more than three hours to give a speech last night, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, noted scientist, did what many an after-dinner speaker has no doubt wished to do.

He said: "At this hour, I fear the mind is too weary to listen to the speech I have prepared. I had intended to discuss one of the chapters in my new book, 'The Road To Peace.' Any of you who are interested may read the book."

Then he sat down.

The octogeneerian educator retired head of California Institute of Technology at Pasadena and a Nobel Prize winner in 1923, had been invited to give the chief address at the Chamber of Commerce's annual dinner, attended by 300 members.

in highway laws, because certain type trucks are allowed to carry a certain amount of weight over the highways. For instance, a tandem wheel truck is allowed 28,600 pounds, whereas a single wheel drive is allowed a load of 18,000 pounds.

No Arguments

The weighmaster said since he has operated the scales there has been no friction or argument among the customers. He said one has to be careful with the scales and they have to be balanced every day. He added that they have to be checked several times a day during stormy weather, because at that time the platform gets wet and heavy. Just to prove his point, he balanced the heavy scales and then put a dollar bill on the weight end of the scales. The dollar bill caused the weights to fall to the bottom, and when the bill was picked up, the weights lifted into place.

As the starter's gun signaled the beginning of the 415-yard pancake race at Liberal, Kas., 32 American housewives, carrying a griddle and a pancake, pitted their speed against that of their British counterparts in Olney, England. Mrs. Dale Warren, 22, a bride of but a few months, won the Kansas race but Florence Callow, 18, ran the Olney course in faster time to win the first trans-Atlantic batter derby. (NEA Telephoto)

Dry Climate Helped Asthma

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Green-eyed Janet Latsha did a bit of mountain climbing yesterday.

It was quite a trick for the seven-year-old daughter of Mrs. Wilma Latsha, Nacogdoches, Tex. She came here less than four months ago from a hospital in Oklahoma City.

Her doctors there said she was dying of asthma which has plagued her since she was 10 months old.

Janet was flown to this high dry climate last Oct. 14. At the time she was told her mother she wanted to climb the nearby 10,678-foot Sandias when she got well because mountains made her feel "close to Jesus."

At the time, the mountain climbing seemed far away. . .if at all possible. Janet weighed only 34 pounds. She was frail and in almost constant need of emergency care for her attacks.

Yesterday she finally did a little mountain climbing, raising hopes for the mother that their long battle with the affliction may be near an end.

It was the first time out for Janet since her plane ride here. Treated by the Catholic Sisters of Charity, she now weighs 46 pounds—described as near normal for her age. Her appetite has improved and her diet no longer as restricted as it was. She no longer needs emergency treatment and is more active.

She said she's looking forward to more trips to her mountains.

BALANCED FARMING Speaks for Itself!

No. 17 of a Series on BALANCED FARMING

Run-down, unprofitable Land Converted into Model Farm

Balanced Farming methods put into practice on Missouri farms have shown astonishing results. One farm, 17 years ago, was in poor, run-down condition with wide ditches 10 feet deep. The yield was so poor that only 20 cattle could be kept.

The owner decided to adopt Balanced Farming. As a result, four terraces were made—a test that "sold" the farmer on the idea. From 1943 to 1948 he built eleven miles of terraces. Now, all but 12 of the 199 acres are terraced. A silt basin and three ponds have also been constructed.

Today, you can drive across those old gullies in a car. Waste land is being profitably farmed and corn yield increased from 40 to 90 bushels an acre. Good hay is being produced and three times as many cattle grazed. The land has been limed and fertilized. Crops are rotated. An entirely modernized house completes the picture. That's only one example of the farm improvement Balanced Farming has made in dozens of counties in Missouri.

The 39 Balanced Farming associations operating in Missouri represent an effective approach to getting Balanced Farming under way rapidly. To start such a program on your farm, write the Missouri College of Agriculture, or see your County Agent.

The Prosperity of Missouri's Rural Communities Depends Largely Upon the Prosperity of the Farmer—As He Prospers, They Likewise Prosper.

The aim of Balanced Farming has always been to make farming more productive, pleasant and profitable. Modern utility service has a similar objective—to serve better, and make better living possible by supplying utilities and tested appliances at low cost. The investor-owned, tax-paying electric, gas, and water utilities of Missouri are proud of the part they have played in bringing comfort and convenience to more and more farm families and rural communities. Check your farm expenses and ask yourself what other items bring you so much comfort and convenience for so little. This low cost is due to the efficiency of employees and sound management on the part of your investor-owned electric, gas, and water companies of Missouri.

Mackenzie's Column

By Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

This is the fateful day on which England's voters are deciding whether the Social government shall be continued in power or whether the country shall return to the system of free enterprise under which the empire reached its zenith.

One employs the word "fateful" advisedly, for it is possible that today's verdict may be irrevocable if Socialism again wins. That is so because if Socialism should get a further five-year lease of life, in which to complete its program of nationalization and other Socialist economy, it might be impossible to revert to capitalism even if the country wanted to. However, that is one of the imponderables which only time can solve.

Actually it's doubtful whether many of the 34,000,000 voters are carrying their analyses quite that far. They are being governed largely by concrete results already achieved in the way of raising the standard of life and in the prospects for the immediate future.

Expect Them to Be Influenced

On that basis one would expect them to be more influenced at this juncture by the tangible benefits of wholesale free medical treatment than by the early signs of the regimentation that is a necessary part of a welfare state.

The beginnings of regimentation, (even in peacetime), are seen in the regulation that the worker must apply for employment through a government agency and take the position which the government thinks best for the country, irrespective of the individual's desire. He can appeal to his trade union if dissatisfied, but the government has the last word. Raw materials are apportioned to industry on a similar basis of national need.

As the voters started to the polls this morning the prophets could only guess what the outcome might be. On the basis of the known party strength, the Laborites (Socialists) and the Conservatives were running close in votes. The Socialists claimed a margin but it wasn't large.

Few May Swing Elections

The outcome seemed to rest with some ten percent of the voters, made up largely of women who hadn't yet declared their intentions. This ten percent may hold the fate of the election in their hands.

Three parties are involved. Besides the Socialists and Conservatives, who form the major parties, numerically, there are the Liberals, who may be characterized as middle of the road politically. The Liberals have been showing new strength after a long period of great weakness.

Should either the Socialists or the Conservatives come to power without an overall majority of the 625 seats in the House of Commons, they would of course be at the mercy of a combination of the other two parties. This would give the Liberals a position of importance, as holding the balance of power.

Leader Will Form Government

The leader of the party which wins the greatest number of seats will be summoned by the king to form a government. If that leader doesn't have a safe majority he might decline the offer, whereupon the second strongest party would be invited to form a government and might accept if it could make a coalition with the third party. Failure to form a government would result in a new general election.

Naturally if the Socialists win, Prime Minister Attlee will continue to head the government. If the Conservatives should come to power one would expect the famous Winston Churchill to take over again. Should he for any reason not feel able to serve, former Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, who is second in command of the Conservative party, probably would take over.

Churchill Stirs Imagination

The 75 year old Churchill has again stirred the imagination of the public by his colorful and vigorous campaigning. The maestro has been in rare form, and his followers claim that he made a grand slam with his call for a conference on peace and atom control with Soviet Premier Stalin. Churchill himself says this issue has dominated the election, and if that estimate is correct it is likely to win him a good many votes.

Oh, well, so much for today. By this time tomorrow we shall know how the voting has gone.

S-C Tigers to Semi-Finals In Regional

Team Plays Tonight With Columbia At 7:30 O'clock

The Smith-Cotton Tigers journey to the Boonville regionals where they will clash with the Columbia quintet in the semi-finals tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The Tigers earned the right to play tonight by defeating Fulton 61 to 21 at the start of the meet, Tuesday night. Columbia goes another step in the meet by beating Jefferson City 27 to 25 in an overtime game, Wednesday night. The Jays and Kewpies played five and one-half minutes with the score tied at 25-all.

In the other tilt Wednesday night, Marshall cagers eliminated the St. Peters five of Jefferson City by a score of 46 to 38. Following the S-C and Columbia tilt, will be an encounter between Marshall and Boonville cagers. Boonville eeked out a victory over Kemper Tuesday night by a score of 41 to 40. The four teams eliminated from the regionals at Boonville are Fulton, Jefferson City, Kemper, and St. Peters.

The S-C squad: starters, Ruffin and Brown, forwards; Holst, center, Walker and McCrary, guards. and five others, Morgan, Shawver, Edwards, Lankenau and Johnson will leave for the meet from the Smith-Cotton high school at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The championship clash will be played Friday night. The winner will go to the state tournament in Columbia, next week.

Beloit Cagers Hold Top Record

BELOIT, Wis., Feb. 23 —(AP)— You can't win 'em all, but if you can come as close as Dolph Stanley has in 20 years of basketball coaching you're doing all right.

Stanley's Beloit college teams have won 28 straight Midwest conference games and five successive titles since he came here in 1945 after 15 years in Illinois' high school ranks.

His winning percentage, in both college and high school, is .842. Overall, Stanley teams have won 511 and lost 96 games. In the Midwest conference, a nine-team loop made up of teams from Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin, he's won 112 and lost 21.

How does he do it?

"Understanding the men is more important to a coach than knowledge of the game," he says.

"Too many coaches place their own personalities and styles of play ahead of the material with which they have to work. As a result, the players are forced to fit the only pattern the coach knows, instead of the coach finding a pattern to fit the players."

Golfers Tee Off In Houston Meet

By Max B. Skelton

HOUSTON, Feb 23—(AP)—Colorful Jimmy Demaret, who has had tough luck in most previous stops in his native city, went after the Houston Open Golf packpot today.

Demaret, born here 40 years ago, paced a field of 165 that was to tee off in the first round of the $10,000 tournament.

Demaret has finished no higher than fourth in previous Houston opens.

Demaret clipped off a few par-score holes late yesterday afternoon while tuning up on the layout he knows so well.

All three—Demaret, Cary Middlecoff, Ormond Beach, Fla., and Jackie Burke, Jr., stuck close to par.

Ray Hill, former Shreveport, La., pro now working out of Chicago, reported the best score of the day, a four-under 32 on the back nine.

Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, did the front nine in a three-under 33.

Mickey Cachran Re-joins Baseball After 12 Years

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23—Mickey Cochran, one of baseball's greatest backstops, has returned to the game after an absence of 12 years.

Cochran joined the Connie Mack rookie school, a baseball tryout camp sponsored by the Philadelphia Athletics, yesterday as an instructor and will become coach with the Athletics on March 1.

He was out of baseball for 12 years except for a tour of duty as physical instructor in the Navy during the war.

68 Players Unsigned in Major Leagues

Nine Signed Contracts in Last 24 Hours

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—With just one week to go before the major league teams begin spring training chores, the front offices had 68 "dotted line" ceremonies remaining today.

Not that they're all holdouts on their 1950 contracts, but the fact remains that 49 American Leaguers and 19 players in the National loop still are outside the fold.

Nine players put the ink to the documents in the last 24 hours, including a couple of important operatives for the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers. Latest to come to terms for Brooklyn was outfielder Gene Herbanski, whose signed contract was received shortly after the Brooks announced pitcher Jack Banta had come to terms.

Unsigned Dodgers

That left pitchers Rex Barney and Clarence Podbielan and infielder Bobby Morgan still unsigned by Branch Rickey.

The Philadelphia Athletics reported that pitcher Lou Brissie, who won 16 and lost 11 games last year, had agreed to terms reported to call for about $15,000. Five other A's still are out, the most important listed as Bob Dillinger, third sacker.

Detroit finally got outfielder Vic Wertz on the line, reportedly for $18,000 per annum. This still left some big names on the outside looking in—pitchers Hal Newhouser, Fred Hutchinson and Paul Calvert, and outfielder Hoot Evers.

The Cleveland Indians reported three signers, infielder Herb Conyers, Ray Boone and Al Rosen, but six Indians still are on the warpath, including catcher Jim Hegan, pitchers Bob Lemon and Red Embree, and infielder Johnny Berardino.

Rookies pitcher Don Carlsen, 23-year-old right hander from Denver, was the last of the Chicago Cub holdouts to agree to terms.

It's Up To Pollet

At the same time, the St. Louis Cardinals signed pitcher Bill Reeder, leaving one player on the holdout list—star southpaw Howie Pollet.

The Cards said the next move was up to Pollet. At Houston, Pollet said he would remain away from the training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., until he has signed.

Play Begins in Golf For Baseball Players

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—Match play begins today in the 11th National Baseball Players golf championship with Jack Russell, former Washington Senators pitcher, pacing the field of 42.

Russell won medalist honors yesterday in an "extra inning" battle with Wes Ferrell, former Boston Red Sox pitcher, and Lou Klein, Cincinnati Reds infielder They tied with 75s in opening play and Russell took the nine hole playoff with a one over par 36

Five players qualified with 77s. They were Paul Waner, former Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder; Allie Reynolds, New York Yankee pitcher; Dizzy Trout, Detroit Tigers pitcher; Dizzy Dean, former St. Louis Cardinals pitcher, and Ed Levy, formerly of the New York Yankees.

Judge Joseph Monahan of Boston qualified with 78 and Jim Arvea, Cincinnati Reds pitcher, tied Lou Kretlow, St. Louis Browns moundsman, with 79.

Curtis Mitchell and Leonard Mayo, both formerly with the Atlanta Crackers; Judge Phil O'Connell, president of the Florida International League, and Gerry Priddy, Detroit Tigers infielder, each had 81, completing the championship flight.

Trout fishing is possible in all but three of the counties of the state of Arizona.

Team Shoots For 83rd Cage Win

Last Defeat of Kentucky Was Jan. 2, 1943

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 23—(AP)—Kentucky shoots for its 83rd straight basketball triumph on its home floor here tonight against Xavier University of Cincinnati.

The Kentuckians are favored to beat Xavier handily. They drubbed the Musketeers in Cincinnati 58-47. Kentucky has a season's record of 20 victories and four losses; Xavier seven and 15.

But right now Kentucky's veteran Coach Adolph Rupp is interested in that 82-straight record of his Wildcats, rated fifth nationally in this week's Associated Press poll.

Hope to Post No. 84

If any major college club can match it, Rupp would like to hear about it. If his "boys" keep hitting, they'll post triumph No. 84 Saturday night when they close out the regular season against Vanderbilt, currently leading the Southeastern conference race.

Kentucky is second in the SEC race with a 10-2 record against Vandy's 11-2. Rupp's own record is 405 victories against only 76 losses since he took over the coaching job here in 1930.

The last defeat of Kentucky on its home floor was by Ohio State, 45-40, Jan. 2, 1943. Against Southeastern conference competition only, Wildcats have compiled an even lengthier record — extending back 11 years and 45 consecutive triumphs to a loss to Tennessee by a single point (30-29) in January, 1939.

National Records

Both of these consecutive victory marks are believed to be national records for a major college basketball team.

The Wildcats capped last season's play with the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship.

Princeton, unheralded and unsung at the start of the season, is sweeping all before it in the eastern "Ivy" intercollegiate basketball league and making it difficult for the district two NCAA selection committee to name a team for the post-season tourney

The Tigers nosed out Yale, 51-49, for their seventh straight league victory last night. Beaten only in their first league tilt by Columbia, Princeton now has a 7-1 league mark and can virtually sew up the title by beating Yale again in a return game Saturday.

The district two NCAA selection commitee has decided to wait until all regular season schedules are completed.

Villanova, which represented the district last year, seems to have the inside track at the moment, but CCNY, Canisius, Duquesne, LaSalle, Syracuse, St. Johns of Brooklyn, and now Princeton probably will be given consideration.

Trampled Hawaii

Villanova, sparked by Paul Arizin's 37 points, trampled Hawaii, 80-56, in the second game of a doubleheader at the University of Pennsylvania Palestra. The Hoyas of Georgetown (DC) trimmed Penn, 78-73, in the opener.

Mississippi surprised Alabama, 61-52, and Georgia Tech beat Auburn, 61-53, in the Southeastern conference.

Arizona kept its border conference slate clean by whipping New Mexico, 71-62.

'Wild Bill' Longson Beats Mike Sharp

The going was somewhat rough at the wrestling matches, Wednesday night, the contestants starting out scientifically and ending with Texas rules. "Wild Bill" Longson, Salt Lake City, Utah, came through to win the main event by beating Mike Sharp of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada. The semi-windup between Vic Holbrook Hollywood, Calif., and Lee Henning, Buffalo, N. Y., went to a draw while in the special event Tommy O'Toole, Boston, Mass., stopped Vic Christy of Los Angeles, California in a one-fall contest.

Longson took the first fall in 12 minutes and 15 seconds after using his own atomic drop, and smother. The middle fall went to Sharp who roughed Longson up and got a body press in one minute and 36 seconds. Longson good at the rough tactics had Sharp all over the ring and after nine minutes and 39 seconds got a body press and won.

Henning was the winner of the opening fall of the semi-windup. He and Holbrook went through the roughhouse act for 21 minutes and 21 seconds with Henning succeeding in applying the rolling press headlock to an advantage. The second fall was Holbrooks who used a bulldog headlock to win in seven minutes and 55 seconds. The match went to a draw when the time ran out.

O'Toole used a torturing headlock to win from Christy in 14 minutes and eight seconds.

The next wrestling show will be held at the armory on March 8, talent not being available for one next week.

Culler Worked Busher Trick, Wilks Balked in Winning Run For St. Paul

Alfonso Carrasquel

By Ted Wilks
St. Louis Cardinals' Relief Pitcher

My biggest boner happened with Columbus in the American Association and it gave Eddie Dyer a big knot on the head.

It was in St. Paul June 14, 1942. We weren't going so well, and Manager Dyer wasn't happy.

We had the game tied up going into the last inning of the second game of a double header. Dick Culler opened the inning with a triple.

George Scala

Jack Bruner

Naturally with Culler on third, I was taking a full but quick windup. He started off third base taking a normal lead, as I started my windup.

I was already into my windup when he suddenly yelled:

"Time. I want to tie my shoe."

I stopped my windup.

Culler and the rest o fthe St. Paul players hollered "balk," and the umpires sent Culler home with the winning run.

Dyer jumped up out of our dugout, started after me. When he jumped up, his head hit the top of the dugout. I started for the clubhouse.

The blow on the head didn't knock Dyer out, but they tell me it dazed him to where he was just running around in circles in front o fthe dugout.

I was running for the clubhouse. We had lost the first game —that cost us the second—so I knew what was coming.

I thought the Skip was going to pop when he finally got to the clubhouse. He raved and he ranted, he walked up and down. "You so-and-so Polack," he raged, "I ought to fine you every penny you've got, falling for a busher trick like that. If I had a gun I'd shoot you." He was mad!

And all the time he was rubbing his head.

That's mine, brother, and I'll never forget it.

Central Business College cagers will leave from the Griddle at 6:30 o'clock this evening for Lincoln, where they will clash with the Lincoln five, in a basketball tilt.

One of CBC's high scorers, center Norman Thompson will not play tonight, as he is one of the officials at the Cross Timbers regional basketball tournament.

• Sports Roundup

By Gayle Talbot
(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—Your host is the only horse in the world with a personal publicity man and all that, but the eastern racing set will remain cool to the coast's pride and joy until it sees him win the Kentucky Derby. It's a state of mind, stemming from the fact that only one California oat eater ever won the three-year-old classic, and that 28 long years ago. . . . Harrison Dillard will compete both in the 60-yard dash and the hurdles if the K. of C. games at the Garden next week. He will tangle in the 60 with Andy Standfield of Seton Hall, who is suspected by some critics of being the swiftest dash man in the world at the moment. We'll take a small ticket on Dillard.

No baseball president stands more firmly behind his umpires than the Westminster Kennel club behind its judges. Breed fanciers will recall that there was an unhappy incident at the recent national show when an entry was "excused" from the ring by one of the judges, Mrs. Beatrice Godsol of Canoga Park, Calif. She said the beast had been powdered. Its owner said among other things that the judge's eyesight was faulty. Upon reflection, the austere kennel club now "wishes it known that it has absolute confidence in Mrs. Godsol's integrity and it commends and thanks her for the manner in which she handled her entire assignment."

With a year of successful operation behind it, Cincinnati's new 11,000 capacity garden has taken it place among the nation's leading sports arenas. In its first 12 months the Queen City garden drew 707,362 paying customers, 324,392 of them to sports events. . . . Bill Johnson, Jr., scion of the noted fight-promoting and managing Johnstons, has signed a two-year contract with CBS as a wrestling commentator on a big hook-up. . . . Tommy Henrich of the Yanks estimates he has averaged four nights a week this winter telling rubber chicken gatherings how he smacked that home run off Don Newcombe in the first game of the world series.

Sedalia Stars Lose To KC Club

The Sedalia Stars, Sedalia's semi-pro Negro basketball club, met defeat at the hands of the U. S. Trade School All-Stars of Kansas City on the Hubbard high school court Wednesday night. The Sedalia boys were trounced 70 to 52.

The local boys put up a game battle and at the end of the first period were tied up with the Kansas Citians 18 all. In the second period however, the K. C. club pulled away and led the Sedalians at the half time with a score of 37 to 26.

Second Round Clash In Two-ball Golf

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—The Bolesta brothers, who stole the spotlight from the Bauer sisters, meet today in a featured match of the International Mixed Two-Ball golf tournament.

Burl Bolesta and his partner, Kathryn Hemphill, both of Tampa, spilled Alice Bauer, older of the Midland, Tex., sisters, and Al Besselink of Detroit, one up in 19 holes yesterday.

George Bolesta of Tampa and Babe Zaharias of Prairie View, Ill., made up the hottest pair of the first round. While a strong wind sent other scores soaring, they whizzed through a 6 and 5 decision over Mr. and Mrs. Lee Costen of St. Clair, Mich., and were six under par as they closed it out.

George and the Babe were favored to beat brother Burl and Miss Hemphill in their second round clash.

Another surprise yesterday came in the victory of Patty Berg of Chicago and Earl Stewart of Dallas over co-medalists Marilynn Smith of Wichita, Kas., and Herb Minert of Gary, Ind., one up.

Marlene Bauer and home pro Denny Champagne got by Bea McWane of Birmingham and Clay Gaddie of Cincinnati, 3 and 2.

Battled Death Today After Knockout in Comeback

By Will Grimsley

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—Lavern Roach, free-swinging young Texan who three years ago was acclaimed boxing's brightest prospect, battled death today after being knocked out in a comeback try at the ring big time.

The Plainview, Tex., middleweight was in "critical" condition at St. Claire's hospital, unconscious and in an oxygen tent.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, physician for the State Athletic Commission, said it would be 48 hours before he could give a decision on the fighter's chances of survival.

Smashed Canvas Twice

Roach (159), who turned 25 yesterday, was smashed to the canvas twice in rapid succession by George Small (159 ½) of Brooklyn in the last round of a bloody ten-round melee last night at St. Nicholas arena.

Referee Frank Fullam stopped the fight at 1:57 of the round. Roach, hauled to his corner, talked with his handlers and several times attempted to leave the ring under his own power.

Soon, however, he passed out and, after an on-the-spot examination by Dr. Nardiello, was taken to St. Clare's where less than two months ago Bronx heavyweight Carmine Vingo was carried with a similar critical injury.

Contusion of the Brain

This was an important fight for the good-looking Texas gladiator.

It was to determine whether he could come back to the fighting big time from which he was tumbled in March, 1948. It was then that he was stopped by the late Marcel Cerdan of France.

Roach, who began his professional career in the fall of 1945, was honored by Ring magazine as the 1947 "rookie fighter of the year."

He was doing well against Small, a 23-year-old power puncher, until late in the conflict. He was ahead on all the officials' cards and only a knockout apparently could cost him the verdict.

Midway of the eighth Small exploded a right on Roach's mouth. Lavern's knees buckled, but he hung on, blood streaming through his teeth. He fought a hard ninth.

Then early in the tenth Small banged Roach to the floor with a right to the jaw. Roach rose weakly at the count of nine, only to be felled again. The referee stepped in to halt hostilities without counting.

Hughesville Cagers Beat Lincoln 64-34

The Hughesville cagers downed the Lincoln team on the Lincoln court by a score of 64 to 34 this week. The Lincoln volleyball girls topped the Hughesville girls by a big score.

The Hughesville quintet played their 24th game, making a season total of 22 wins and two losses.

Calumet Trio Dominate The Golden Gallop

Citation, Ponder And Two Lea to Run Saturday

By Bob Myers

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 23—(AP)—Anyone who bets against the powerful Calumet entry of Citation, Ponder and Two Lea in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap must be slightly touched in the head.

The Calumets probably will go postward at a prohibitive price of about one to four, and rightly so. Citation, if he's back in his old form of 1948, would be worth that price alone. Ponder looks like the solid member of the Calumet threesome, and the filly, Two Lea, cannot be ignored on any grounds, including her sex.

13th Running

Touched or not, the bargain hunters will be well represented at Santa Anita Saturday for the thirteenth running of the golden gallop. And after the one to four Calumet trio, the next price doubtless will be no less than eight to one, and that isn't exactly a short one.

From that figure the opportunities for the longshot boys increase. By the time the Foxcatcher farm's filly, Gaffery, is reached they will far exceed the fat 60 to one paid off by Tony Pelleteri's Bay View when he scampered through the slosh and won the 1941 hundred grander.

Possibly the two nearest rivals to the Calumets for public fancy will be Ben F. Whitaker's My Request and Charles S. Howard's Irish-bred Noor.

Won a Sprint Tuneup

My Request was rated the nation's number three performer to Citation and Coaltown as three-year-olds in 1948, and he won some good stakes last year. But he has raced here only once this season, winning a sprint tuneup

Noor established himself as a real threat in the San Antonio handicap Feb. 11. Ponder won the race by a length over Citation, and Noor was a mere half length behind big C.

That was at a mile and one-eighth. Citation packed 130 pounds, Ponder 128 and Noor 114. The big handicap is at a mile and one quarter, Citation carries 132, Ponder 124 and Noor 109. If distance and weight make a difference, Noor gains and the two top Calumets lose.

The Howard horse runs against three Calumets instead of two, of course, and so do the others in the field. That makes three reasons, instead of one or two, why anyone has to be a little touched in the head to tackle the big entry.

Suspension of Students Over

BETHANY, Okla., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Four Bethany high school students, suspended after a walkout and a "queen kissing" incident last week, were free to return to school today.

The school board lifted the ban imposed by Superintendent Harry Edwards at a meeting last night. Students and their parents were interviewed by board members during a long session.

The parents said the board did not ask for apologies and would accept the re-admission "without compromise."

Meanwhile, Attorney Fred L. Sikes, representing a citizens committee, worked overtime in preparation of legal papers for a district suit to oust the Bethany school board, superintendent and principal.

W. E. Bleakley, committee chairman, said the suit "will charge school officials with incompetence and permitting a religious sect (Nazarene) to dominate policies."

The dispute started after 16-year-old Charlotte McLain was kissed while being crowned basketball queen. Public kissing is taboo in Bethany.

The school board, in re-admitting the students, said:

"Suspension has been lifted for those who agreed to return, to co-operate willingly and to abide by regulations. All others will be re-admitted on the same basis."

Students returning are: Jay Strader, 18, president of the walkout group; Paul Witherspoon, 16, vice president; Robert Hale, 16, and Jennell Ellard, 16.

What a Kisser

Riddell Riggs (above), 16, split the central Oklahoma town of Bethany in two when he kissed basketball queen Charlotte McClain, 16, at a coronation ceremony. Bethany is a Blue Law city with a large part of the population attending the Nazarene church. Because of a taboo on kissing, students anticipated repercussions and staged a walkout. Five were suspended and some angry parents threaten court action. (AP Wirephoto)

PILOT'S A GOOD SKATE—When a freak cold spell put ice on Lake Washington, at Seattle, pilot Bill Fisk took the occasion to do a little fancy skating with his plane. Here he prepares to skid down the ice for a takeoff, using his regular pontoons. Fisk said he doesn't recommend the sport for amateur flyers.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

"PERILS OF PAULINE" included Indians—still a number one movie peril. Pearl also encountered quicksand, high cliffs, trap doors, vicious animals, fire, flood, earthquakes and assorted supernatural horrors. The movie serial, with adventures parceled out one blood-curdling episode a week, began in 1913 when movies were very young. Pearl White, the Pauline of the "Perils," was the undisputed queen of these "cliff-hanger" movies. The end of each week's episode found her on the brink of catastrophe—so far gone, in fact, that the whole thing looked hopeless. Nothing could stop your coming back next week to find out how in the world the heroine escaped fates worse than death. Today's counterparts of cliff-hanging Pauline are as near as your neighborhood movie.

Hal Boyle
COLUMN

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—America is full of people who want to do something big — but just sit around and talk about it.

Such is the sad life story of Mel Allen, one of the most successful failures in the history of sports.

Mel always yearned to be an athlete, particularly a star baseball player. Today he lets Joe Dimaggio play the game, while he just sits and talks about it.

But there is a golden lining to his cloud. Allen gets between $150,000 and $200,000 a year for his oral exercise. And when he thinks of this career irony, he well might employ a phrase familiar to millions of his fans:

"How about that?"

Managed The Team

"As a kid I woke up every day for sports," said Mel, recalling his hole-in-the-shoe youth down south.

"I wasn't good enough to win a baseball letter in the field at the University of Alabama, so I got one by being student manager of the team."

He earned a law degree, too, and passed the bar. But he did not hang out his shingle. He preferred a job in Birmingham broadcasting football games. The salary: $5 a Saturday — in season.

Allen came to New York as a CBS announcer and soon switched to sports. Now he broadcasts the New York Yankee baseball games, has a weekly network program of his own, does two newsreel sports casts a week, the world series, the all-star games and special boxing and basketball events.

Secret of Success

The secret of his success?

"To me sports are still glamorous — and always will be. I'm still country boy enough to be thrilled by the personalities and I get as excited as any other fan."

Mel, a handsome 6-foot-one-inch bachelor lives simply with his parents and brother, likes to cook his own breakfast. Whenever he can, at home or on the road, he works out with the Yankees to keep in shape.

Casey Stengel has this to say about his fielding ability:

"You can play every hop of the ball perfectly — except for the last one."

Room For Improvement

"Graham McNamee was the pioneer in sports broadcasting," he said. "But we all look upon Ted Husing as the guy who set the modern pattern. Graham emphasized description. Ted was the first to concentrate on accuracy and play by play accounts—as well as color.

"There is still room for tremendous improvement, but in the last ten years announcers around the country have realized they must be accurate above everything else. Today you have to know a game as well as a coach or player does. Television has done that."

Before you buy that gabby son of yours a toy microphone and rules book, listen to Mel on the opportunities in sportscasting:

"There are only 25 jobs in the country a fellow would want to work up to and say, 'This is it—this is where I want to stay the rest of my life.'

"But, of course, there are a lot of sports announcing jobs that pay a good reasonable living — perhaps 200."

GOOD RISK—Samuel S. Fels, president of a Philadelphia soap company, celebrated his 90th birthday by doing a full day's work just as he has for the past 74 years. Sixty years ago an insurance company turned him down for a policy because he was considered a doubtful risk.

Dies In Crash Of A Jet Plane

MANHATTAN BEACH, Calif., Feb. 23—(AP)—An aircraft technician was killed in the flaming crash of a jet night fighter plane Wednesday which started a spectacular oil fire.

The pilot, however, bailed out successfully, suffering leg and arm fractures in his parachute descent which ended with him dangling unconscious in a tree.

The dead man was identified as Arthur Turton of nearby Redondo Beach. His body lay amid scattered wreckage of the two-place F-89 plane.

The pilot is Charles Tucker, 30, of La Crescenta, Calif. He has been a test pilot for Northrop since 1948.

Witnesses said the plane seemed to explode in the air at about 500 feet elevation. Flaming wreckage set fire to oil in an open sump pit on Standard Oil Co., property at El Porto Beach.

Autos Collide On Abell Road

A collision of a 1949 Ford coach driven by Eugene H. Doncarlos of Prairie Home and a 1937 Ford coach driven by Mrs. Georgia Viola Glazebrook, of Longwood, occurred about five and a half miles southeast of Sedalia on the Abell road at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The driver of the 1949 Ford was arrested by the state patrol and is to appear in magistrate court at 10:00 o'clock this morning.

The car driven by Mrs. Glazebrook was damaged considerably on the front end and was towed to Chamberlin's garage.

Charge Slaying Of Her husband

LURAY, Va., Feb. 23—(AP)— An attractive 26-year-old redhead, held since Sunday in the fatal shooting of her husband, a Bataan death march survivor Wednesday was charged with murder.

"I didn't do it; Oh, I didn't do it," cried Mrs. Barbara Parks as sheriff Abram Brubaker and state police special investigator C. A. Seal served the murder warrant on her in her Page county jail cell.

She has been held in the county jail since shortly after she called officers to her home near here where they found her husband, Robert Franklin Parks, 38, retired army captain, dead of a bullet wound in the heart. The widow said the shooting occurred accidentally.

Syracuse

Mrs. B. A. Bridges

The Stockholders of the North Morgan County Agricultural and Mechanical Society of Syracuse, or better known as the Fair Association, met January 31 for an annual election of seven men to serve as fair board members for the ensuing year, 1950. Those elected were: F. A. Miller, Earl Steele, Omer Cordry, Ray Boulware, L. A. Stahl, Elmer Fowler and Ray Scott. Oak Grove PTA Has Program

The Oak Grove PTA met February 17 at the Oak Grove school. The meeting was opened by Mrs Al Schreiner, president. The opening song was "Onward Christian Soldiers."

As it was the men's night to be in charge of the program, the devotional was given by Ernest Schlobohm. An educational article on "Citizenship" was read by Elmer Mewes.

Mrs. Schreiner introduced Roy Petty as program chairman for the evening and he in turn took charge of the meeting. C. L. Turner gave the Founders Day report. A men's quartet, consisting of Ernest Schlobohm, Al Schreiner, Elmer Mewes and Herbert Mewes, presented a song, "Rock of Ages."

Mr. Petty then introduced Everett Stevenson, who presented three interesting films.

Following the program, refreshments of sandwiches and soft drinks were served by the refreshment committee, Herbert Mewes, Al Schreiner and Ernest Schlobohm.

Move For Alternate Capital

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—After the Jackson-Jefferson day dinner, some began considering the gruesome question as to what would have happened if an enemy had sent a surprise plane over the Arctic circle on February 16 and dropped an A-bomb on Washington.

Not only were the President and vice-president under the same roof, but also every member of the cabinet, the Democratic governors of ten states and a good part of the Senate and House of Representatives. The speaker was also present, and if such a catastrophe had occurred, it would have been up to a speaker pro tem to convene the House, while Senator McKellar would have had the power to convene the Senate.

Whether Congress would have then called for special elections or whether the Republicans would have taken over the administration is a debatable question. Undoubtedly, however, the Republicans would have had to take over for the time being, since few Democratic leaders would have been left, and since three to six months would have been necessary to make nominations and conduct the final balloting.

There would also be the question of who would declare war with part of Congress gone, and who would make the vital decisions necessary to carry on a war.

These are just a few of the problems which aren't pleasant to think about but which have to be considered in view of the now definite fact that Russia has all our atomic secrets. This is also why the administration, after inexcusably long delays, is finally working on civil defense, including an alternate capital of the United States.

Speculation is that an alternate capital would be safest somewhere in the Rocky mountains, possibly Denver or Salt Lake City.

Recently Karol Folta, head of the Sovak Democratic party, was branded as "a spy for the United States" and sentenced to death following a secret trial. The tragic news reached the condemned man's three brothers, who left Czechoslovakia long ago and now live in Minneapolis. They appealed to Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota to see whether anything could be done.

Humphrey made a personal appeal to the Czech ambassador, Dr. Vladimir Outrata, arguing that "it is inconceivable that one could receive a death sentence for the alleged conveyance of information for the United States or any other country with whom Czechoslovakia is at peace."

Ambassador Outrata wrote back: "The penalty was carried out before your letter arrived. . .

"I appreciate the fact that the United States are in a fortunate position where it is not necessary for them to penalize the crimes of treason, espionage, etc., by death in time of peace. Unfortunately the position of small and dangerously exposed Czechoslovakia is naturally different, and the Czechoslovak government must, although reluctantly, resort to this extreme measure of justice. The case of Karol Folta is just one of such cases."

But the amazing follow-up is that three weeks later the Folta brothers received a matter-of-fact letter from Czechoslovakia saying their brother was still awaiting execution. Senator Humphrey also received a direct letter from the Czech underground informing him that Karol Folta is still alive in the Leopoldov prison. The senator has now written another letter to Outrata, pleading again for Folta's life. But so far the ambassador has given no explanation.

A Little Alibi, Now and Then, Is Needed by the Best of Men

By Bruce Biossat

Not for 13 years has any newsman had an exclusive interview with a president. But Arthur Krock, New York Times' Washington chief who gained an audience with Mr. Roosevelt in 1937, now has managed the same trick with President Truman.

Krock's outstanding impression is of a chief executive serenely confident that despite all the world's perils man's better nature somehow will prevail and atomic warfare will be avoided.

No one can take this confidence away from the president. Nor would anyone want to. It would be real ground for general despair to know that our highest responsible official had given up hope of peace. Americans — indeed, the world — should welcome his optimism.

Mr. Truman is perhaps somewhat too charitable toward the Russians, however, when he says their chief trouble is that they still fear us and feel inferior toward us. That excuse seems a poor one for many of their brutal excesses.

Krock led the President to dwell on such varied subjects as Administration spending, socialism and the American economy, the Hiss case and civil rights issues.

Mr. Truman assured Krock his economic goal is to make America's free system work better, not to replace it with socialism. "There is not a drop of Marxist or socialist blood in me." he said. He insisted also he wants to balance the budget as badly as anyone, and will accept suggestions on how to do it.

There's no reason at all to doubt the President's statement that he has no socialist leanings. But his remarks on budget deficits sound frankly political. He blames the 1948 Republican tax cut for th entire deficit of the current year, even though it is expected to run well beyond the largest estimates of loss from the tax reduction bill.

Responsible Democrats like Senator Douglas of Illinois, who stands firmly for Mr. Truman's social program, believe substantial economies can be achieved without hurting necessary government services. Yet the President suggests cuts in spending are impossible.

His response to some of Krock's questions indicate that Mr. Truman has either forgotten or is glossing over things that he said months and years ago.

For example, he was asked about the "sense of inadequacy" he expressed when he took office on Mr. Roosevelt's death. At that time Mr. Truman repeatedly and often strikingly declared his unfitness and his distaste for the job.

Now he says he intended simply to indicate he felt unprepared because he wasn't briefed on the urgent problems of that hour and didn't know where to turn for wise counsel. Those who remember his original words are apt to feel a better answer is that the President has just grown to like his work.

Likewise, his defense of his frequent "red herring" comments on the Hiss case and related spy activities sounds a trifle contrived. He says he never meant to minimize the disclosures themselves but merely the methods by which the House un-American Activities committee made them public.

Mr. Truman could have made that distinction clear on any of the occasions when he used the term "red herring." But he didn't. His regular recourse to that phrase looked more like a cover for the Administration's embarrassment, especially over the fact that the House group rather than a government agency made the revelations that broke the case wide open.

But these aren't intended as carping criticisms. Krock's intnerview shows the president basically honest, courageous, imbued with high faith. Yet still enough like the rest of us to indulge in the common human practice of trying to explain away failures and adding a ruddier glow to some of his acts than they originally had.

We Mustn't Flinch in the Face Of Mounting Russian Threats

This is a time of supreme urgency in America. Not since Russian fighters buzzed our airlift planes over Germany have we had greater need to view the future with courage and determiniation.

Dr. Harold Urey, atomic scientist, tersely expresses the danger: "If the H-bomb is created there will be no place to hide."

Another eminent scientist, Dr. Vannevar Bush, warns that the only real defense against the A-bomb or the H-bomb or any other explosive weapon is to keep it away from our shores.

Urey underlines that warning by telling us that not only Russian bombers but innocent-looking tramp steamers which slip almost unnoticed into our harbors may bear the dreaded explosive cargo.

He forsees a possible Soviet effort before the year is out to split European Atlantic Pact nations off from us by mining their key harbors with atomic charges.

Rumors are rife that Russia may strike any time at defiant Tito in Yugoslavia or at Finland, tiniest partner in the Soviet Union's circle of compulsory friends.

Admiral Sherman, chief of naval operations, declares the Russians have a vast submarine fleet in Asiatic waters. Military experts see submarines as prime carriers of super-explosives for possible launching against our island outposts or our western shore.

A government aviation research official reiterates an old story: Russia has a bigger air force than ours.

Air Secretary Symington goes him several points better, asserting that Soviet dictators have the world's largest armed forces and are capable of a surprise attack upon any part of America's 3,000,000 square miles.

These signals of peril have not gone unheeded. The cry for action to stave off civilization's ruin has risen everywhere. And that call has been answered, by Secretary of State Acheson, with the full support of President Truman.

Our policy for dealing with Russia in this hour is to be founded solely on strength and power. For these blunt tools of diplomacy are the only ones which impress Moscow.

Let the meaning of that decision sink in. There'll be no more big-power meetings, no peace treaties with Germany and Japan, no disarmament or atomic control talks until we and our friends among free nations are strong enough to establish conditions that Russia must accept whether it wants to or not.

We do not have that kind of strength now. Therefore it is clear we must set about getting it without delay. Otherwise our policy of power is a string of empty phrases.

As a beginning we must stop deluding ourselves that we do have such strength. Nothing is more dangerously misleading than the statement of Secretary of Defense Johnson that we're ready to "go over and lick hell out of Joe Stalin."

The truth is we plan to reduce our military budget for the coming fiscal year by some $2,000,000,000. Obviously we aren't going to get more defense for less money.

To obtain the power we need will force us to some hard choices. Expanded military strength almost certainly will mean contracted civilian comforts. We'd better find out soon where those choices lie—and start making them. We can't stand off a world-wide menace while enjoying business as usual.

Our military and scientific experts must make the maddening decision as to the relative value of atomic bombs, guided missiles, long-range bombers, naval forces and land armies in a future war. We must seek balance in our strength.

We can't assume any weapon, including a hydrogen bomb, would give us decisive advantage even if we had it exclusively. And the story of Dr. Klaus Fuchs' spying is a reminder that we'd better not count on sole possession. Spies don't go out of business just when the stakes get bigger.

The way ahead is grim. To travel it we need calmness and unflinching courage.

SUBCONSCIOUS RESENTMENTS

They tell us that if a rattlesnake is cornered it will become so angry that it will bite itself. That is exactly what all harboring of hates and resentments against others is—a biting of oneself. We think we are harming others in holding these spites and hates, but the deepest harm is to ourselves; for many times these resentments are dropped into the unconscious, the lid is shut down on them, and there they work their unconscious havoc. Unconscious resentments are often just as potent for disruption as conscious ones.

A young woman could not raise her arm, which seemed paralized. It was found that, when angry, she had a secret desire to strike her mother. When the reason for the paralysis was shown and she gave up her resentments against her mother, the arm was rstored to normal health again.

A similar case was that of a man who was constantly falling from his horse. He wondered why he couldn't stay on. It was discovered that he had a secret desire to commit suicide, and this falling was the outer sign of that secret desire. When he gave up the hidden resentment he held against life, then he ceased falling from his horse.

A pastor and his wife had a disagreement over their pastoral appointment—he wanted to move, and she didn't. When the bishop made the appointment and moved them she was very bitter and resentful—especially as the husband, wanting to avoid a crisis, stayed away and let her do most of the packing up! After some weeks of harboring this resentment she became ill—she could not get her breath. She went to the new appointment an invalid and rather resigned herself to a life of invalidism. When she saw that the harbored resentments were at the basis of her illness—had paralyzed the nerve fibers which control breathing and that she literally was choking herself to death by her resentments—she surrendered the whole thing to God, became reconciled to the new place, arose out of her invalidism, and is today a radiant, happy, and useful person.

O Christ, I now begin to see why Thou wert always urging man to get rid of anger and resentment and ill will, for Thou didst see by Thy penetrating eye the havoc wrought within the whole person by his hates. Forgive us that we have not seen. And forgive us that, after seeing, we do not surrender. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Few Days in Bed Helps Cure A Troublesome Sore Throat

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Lucky the person who has never had a sore throat. Some sore throats follow or are part of an ordinary cold. Others are simply tonsilitis or are infections which act on the throat without spreading up to the nose or down to the voice box and lower breathing tubes. In some cases sore throat is associated with diseases elsewhere in the body, like digestive upsets or gout.

Because nearly everyone has suffered from a sore throat, it hardly seems necessary to decribe the symptoms. However, before the throat gets really "sore" there may be a little feeling of uneasiness or difficulty in swallowing or tickling or dryness in the throat with a desire to cough and hawk. Staying at home in bed at this stage not only might shorten the course of the sore throat but also it would avoid passing the infection on to others.

Most bad sore throats are caused by germs called streptococci which were present in milk or some other foods. The proper handling of milk and pasteurization, as well as refrigeration, has greatly reduced the frequency of this kind of sore throat.

In a severe sore throat chilly feelings and slight fever are common. Occasionally the body temperature may rise quite high, especially if the tonsils are involved. The usual variety of acute sore throat does not require much more than a few days rest in bed. Spraying the nose and throat with simple solutions help some people and sometimes painting the throat, if it does not seem to clear up promptly, speeds recovery.

Comfort is greatly increased by the use of hot compresses or an ice bag applied to the neck. The use of powdered sulfa preparations may be of value. The discomfort can often be relieved and the fever brought down by the use of aspirin. Although they should not be taken too freely, the sulfa drugs and penicillin or its newer relatives are likely to be particularly beneficial.

Find the Cause

Occasionally a chronic sore throat may follow a number of acute attacks. This is especially common in someone who drinks alcohol to excess, smokes a great deal or who uses his or her voice often and hard. In the treatment of this type of sore throat, the general health must be looked after.

The particular cause which is keeping the sore throat from getting better should be looked after and stopped if possible. For example, those who come from excessive use of the voice may merely require a fairly long period of silence. Gargles, sprays and the like may bring temporary relief. Removal of diseased tonsils may be of great value in certain cases.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

End of a Chapter

MURIEL HALLECK ignored Alice determinedly and went on with her story.

"I tried to cope with young Rick, but his terror of the storm put him beyond reason. You saw how he acted the day he threw that tantrum—"

Alice nodded and Muriel went on. "Finally I lost my temper. I remembered that ugly little whip. It had belonged to Brent's father, who used to raise dogs. I got it and—"

Again she paused as Alice squeezed her hand. Anyone but Muriel Halleck might have burst into tears.

"Honestly though, Alice," Muriel continued, "after the very first blow, I just tapped Rick. But that was enough to scare the poor child to death.

"Well, Brent heard the commotion and woke up in the middle of it. He came charging out of the bedroom. And, really, I thought for a moment he was going to kill me.

"He grabbed me and slung me back into our bedroom. That's how I got those awful bruises on my arm. I knew you didn't believe my story about banging into something in the night."

Alice nodded, realizing that she had thought the bruises were further evidence of Brent's cruelty.

"Then I heard you come," Muriel was still speaking. "Afterwards Brent came into the room and hung the whip in my closet. He said—" Muriel winced "—that I'd better keep it among my own things if I was so blasted fond of it. But until now I've let Brent take the—the rap. With you."

"It's all right now, Muriel," Alice said.

"Now it is, but it wasn't before. Don't you see, my dear? I just couldn't go off to California letting you believe a rotten thing like that about Brent."

Muriel's head came up and she managed a smile. "I'm an ambitious, self-centered woman, Alice, but I'm not all bad."

Muriel rose and stood again by the door, ready to leave.

NO, Alice thought as she stood facing Muriel. She wasn't all bad. It had taken courage for her to come here today.

Alice said slowly: "I'm very glad you told me this, Muriel. And now I'm going to tell you something. I think you ought to go back to Brent and Rick."

Muriel shook her head decisively.

"No. That's out of the question, Alice. I've tried to be very honest, I think, about everything except that one disagreeable episode. But Brent and I have drifted apart for a long time. It started even during the war."

Alice recalled the local gossip at Tolliver that resulted from Brent's failure to return home on leaves and his getting assigned to occupation forces after the war.

"Maybe I'm to blame," Muriel said. "I admit to being cold-blooded. You have to be, if you want, more than anything else, to get to the top of the world. But I also found that I had to be honest all the way around. That's the result of a good middleclass Indiana training, I suppose."

She sighed. Then she held out her hand.

"Good luck, Alice," she said, with a trace of a smile. "I won't ask you what's going to happen next. Because, keeping up this appalling honesty—or cold-bloodedness—of mine, it doesn't make the slightest difference in the world to me."

"Good luck to you, too, Muriel," Alice said, clasping the hand. "You're a brave woman."

After the handshake, Muriel Halleck turned and was gone.

Alice Pine stood in the doorway for a moment and then she closed the door and locked it. She had to take time to think.

ALICE sat down on the edge of the bed, her hands clasped in her lap as she went over each detail of that summer.

Why had she doubted Brent Halleck? She had known deeply, within herself, that he was incapable of being cruel to little Rick. But the evidence had seemed too conclusive to ignore.

Brent had been trying to hide that whip, not because of his own guilt but because of Muriel's. And Brent had not corrected Alice's false impression of the incident because he was just what Chuck Wisner had said he was: "A strange guy and a very swell guy."

Even after her conversation with Chuck Wisner in Tolliver that one afternoon, when Chuck had told her many things about Brent and about Muriel, that ugly whip and the night of the storm had remained in her mind.

Alice did not blame Muriel so much for letting her think the worst. It was payment, perhaps, for Alice's falling in love with Brent while Alice was supposed to be loyal to her employer.

Muriel might not really care for Brent, Alice told herself, but after all, Muriel had been in love with him once. And in spite of what Muriel had said, she must have had some feelings when she saw Brent hold Alice in his arms, even for a brief instant, that night on the beach.

These and other thoughts traveled through Alice's mind, but thinking was not what she wanted to do now. She had to explain some things to Brent. Chuck Wisner's words: "You're needed here by a very swell guy," came home to her again.

Quickly she changed clothes. Then she sent a wire to Providence. She got her car and started a long drive back to Grosvenor Point. Surely, she thought, Brent would meet her there. She had asked him to. Surely, he would. There was so much to be said and to be explained. She wondered what he would think when he received her wire. And she began thinking over the things she would have to say to him.

Consider Your Male Guests When Planning a Party

"I like to spend my leisure time with people with whom I feel perfectly relaxed and at ease," I recently heard a hard-working, and highly successful man remark.

That's a tip-off to hostesses as to how most men feel, I think.

The woman who wants to be a really successful hostess ought not to forget it when she is planning a party.

It will keep her from making a lot of mistakes—so far as her men guests are concerned.

For one thing, it ought to make her extra careful in the selection of guests. A lot of hostesses are enough aware of feminine rivalries so that they wouldn't think of inviting two women who don't get along to the same party—yet don't give any conideration to whether or not their men guests are all congenial.

Women Like Big Parties—Men Don't

Then, too, it ought to keep a hostess from making the mistake of giving a few big parties to get her entertaining over with, instead of a number of small parties where the men can relax and feel they have had some part in the evening's entertainment. A woman may like a large party, because she can show off her new dress to more persons. But men like a group small enough so that they can take part in some real conversation.

And certainly it ought to make a hostess realize the importance of not giving stiff, formal affairs. Women may exclaim over what "beautiful" parties Mrs. So-and-so gives, but men like to feel at home away from home and a party where they can't relax and be themselves is just an ordeal for them.

And last of all, the hostess who realizes that men want to be with people with whom they can feel relaxed and at ease will never make the fatal mistake of trying to impress her guests. Instead she will make every effort to put them at ease and make them feel comfortable and at home.

Light and bright new shoes are keyed to Spring suits and dresses. Repeating the beige tones of the suit modeled (center) are blonde kidskin sling-back pumps trimmed with a small self bow and white punchwork outlining vamp and toe. Slender threads of mauve and raspberry kid wind and cross to form the lacy, high-heeled shoes (upper left) which are ensembled with a chiffon evening gown printed in harmonizing colors. Matching the blue linen sports skirt, flat-heeled linen shoes (lower left) have an open vamp framed by soft shirring. Soft cinnamon suede walking shoes (top right) shown with cinnamon-checked wool skirt owe their airy look to wide straps which cross the instep and provide good support for feet. Strips of yellow, pink and blue patent leather are braided to make the wedge-heeled sandals (lower right). These sandals are modeled with a pastel sheer afternoon dress.

Windsor

Mrs. Leonard Phifer

The Windsor Methodist men in the church basement February 15th at 7:00 o'clock for a contributed supper and program. After the meal a business session was held, at which time these new officers were elected: President, Elbert Marti; vice president, Clyde Hunt; secretary and treasurer, Arnold George. This was followed with an interesting talk on "Building" by Reverend E. F. Dillon of Smithton, who was the guest speaker.

The Sally Gray and Mildred Wright circles of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Windsor Methodist church met in joint session February 17th at 2:00 o'clock in the church basement. Reverend E. W. Bartley, superintendent of the Sedalia district, was the speaker of the afternoon of the subject of Japan. With his talk he had an interesting exhibit of articles showing the customs and traditions of that country.

Reverend Bartley was accompanied to Windsor by Mrs. Bartley and Miss Lulu Monroe of Sedalia. There were other visitors from Calhoun and Brandon churches.

At the close of the meeting a social hour followed with refreshments of coffee and cookies were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Harold Nelson, Mrs. John Wesner, Mrs. Claude Rentle and Mrs. John Chipman to the 47 who were present.

Valentine School Party

The pupils and teacher of the Oak Grove school were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Al Schreiner and daughter, Patty at a Valentine luncheon, February 14. The boys and girls attended school until noon at which time Mr. Schreiner came to the schoolhouse to help transport the children to his home on West Highway 50.

The dining room was decorated with the Valentine motif. The dining table had as a centerpiece a large red cellophane heart with flowers and ivy at the base of it. Lighted candles were on either side of the centerpiece. At each plate was a favor and Valentine sucker. The children were served chili, fruit salad and individual Valentine cupcakes, beautifully decorated.

Those attending the luncheon were: Judy Schlobohm, Carol Turner, Sandra Kirkley, Patty Yeater, Patty Schreiner, Marianne Ehmann, Claude Woolery, David Parkhurst, Mary Ross, Paul Evans, Gwendolyn Ehmann, Richard Parkhurst, Betty Schlobohm, Bobby Schlobohm, Jerry Vannatta, Edith Ross, Kermit Schultz, Marie Mewes, Thelma Martin, and Mrs. D. W. Donath, the teacher.

Mrs. Schreiner was assisted in serving by Mrs. Paul Ehmann.

Following the luncheon the children were returned to the schoolhouse where they had an exchange of Valentines and a Valentine party.

"NO MORE SLEEPLESS NIGHTS"

"I feel so much better since I no longer have to dread those awful sleepless nights! My 'insomnia' turned out to be due to caffein in the coffee I drank. So I switched to POSTUM and now I get 8 hours of restful sleep every night."

Are sleepless nights, due to "coffee nerves", interfering with your good health? . . . Do you wake up in the morning, feeling tired and logy? . . . Then, try a switch to 100% caffein-free POSTUM. See if you don't enjoy good, natural sleep that makes you feel better and enjoy life more.

SCIENTIFIC FACTS: Both coffee and tea contain caffein. And caffein is a drug that acts upon the brain and central nervous system. So, while many people can drink coffee or tea without ill-effect, others suffer nervousness, indigestion, sleeplessness. But POSTUM contains no caffein or other drug — nothing that can possibly keep you awake!

MAKE THIS TEST: Give up coffee — give up tea — drink POSTUM exclusively for 30 days—and judge by results! Ask your grocer today for INSTANT POSTUM—A Vigorous Drink made from Healthful Wheat and Bran—100% caffein-free! POSTUM is a Product of General Foods.

The Time The Anti-Trust Lawyers Killed Their Own Case!

For ten years the anti-trust lawyers have been attacking the business methods that make it possible to give the public the best quality food at the lowest prices.

In our last ad we told you how Federal Judge W. H. Atwell, at Dallas, threw the anti-trust lawyers and all their inflammatory charges against A&P right out of his court.

But the anti-trust lawyers were not satisfied with decisions against them by three federal judges.

They Appealed to New Orleans

So they appealed Judge Atwell's decision to the three-judge Circuit Court at New Orleans.

One of the three, Judge Curtis L. Waller, agreed with Judge Atwell that the case should be dismissed.

The other two members of the Circuit Court, Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, Jr., and Judge Allen Cox, although saying the case should be tried, agreed that the indictment was vague and contained many allegations which were inflammatory.

They decided that Judge Atwell at Dallas should protect A&P from these inflammatory allegations and could order the anti-trust lawyers to supply the defendants with a bill of particulars.

So the case was back in Dallas again.

Judge Atwell, carrying out the decision of the Circuit Court, struck out the inflammatory matter.

He said that without this inflammatory and prejudicial matter the Grand Jury might never have returned the indictment.

Judge Atwell said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"There are many statements in the indictment which are not at all in violation, and are highly prejudicial and inflammatory."

The anti-trust lawyers objected. They advanced an amazing argument. They said that the removal of their inflammatory allegations (which all four judges had agreed did not belong in the indictment) destroyed their case.

Judge Atwell instructed the anti-trust lawyers to furnish the court with a bill of particulars. In short, he wanted specific charges instead of vague generalities. He set the deadline for furnishing this material at January 15th, 1944.

When the anti-trust lawyers twice asked for more time, pleading sickness among their staff, Judge Atwell extended the time to February 25th because he believed that they were honestly trying, in good faith, to prepare the material he had requested.

Actually, it developed, they were using the time to get ready to drop the case in Dallas and start it in another court.

They Quit in Dallas

On February 26th, while the judge was still waiting for his answer, and without any previous notice to him, the anti-trust lawyers gave a story to the newspapers in Washington, announcing that they were dropping the case in Dallas.

They said that it was their intention "to file a substantially similar suit in an appropriate jurisdiction at an early date."

The "early date" turned out to be the same day.

As soon as one anti-trust lawyer killed the case in Dallas, another anti-trust lawyer filed a new case in Danville, Illinois. This new case made most of the same allegations that had been made and dropped in Dallas; and that are being made against us today.

So now, according to the anti-trust lawyers, all four judges who had ruled on the Dallas case were wrong.

Despite defeats in three federal courts in widely separated parts of the country, they continued their campaign to destroy A&P.

When Judge Atwell heard of their action he ordered the anti-trust lawyers to prepare an order for his signature dismissing the Dallas case.

In signing this order he said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"This nolle prosequi does not have the sanction or approval of this court. That is not necessary, nor that the government ask for the court's approval.

"It is, however, a matter that may be presented to the other court and may be of interest to the people at large."

So after their efforts to destroy A&P had failed in Washington, D. C., Wilson, North Carolina, and Dallas, Texas, the anti-trust lawyers moved on to Danville, Illinois.

They were still determined to destroy this company which had brought more and better food at lower cost to millions of American families.

They Were Wrong Three Times Before!

Three times the anti-trust lawyers went into federal courts and made serious and damaging charges against A&P.

Three times federal judges said the anti-trust lawyers were wrong and rendered decisions against them.

In previous ads in this series we told you about these other anti-trust "cases" involving us, which the judges said were not cases at all.

We think you should know about these previous cases, because once again the anti-trust lawyers are making damaging "allegations" that could seriously affect our business if they were believed by the public.

There was the time in Washington, D. C., when they said we and other good American citizens conspired to fix the price of bread in that city.

This was the time Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough ruled that A&P and the other defendants did not even need to put in a defense. He instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty".

It was the time Judge Goldsborough said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"If you were to show this record to any experienced trial lawyer in the world, he would tell you that there was not any evidence at all.

"Honestly, I have never in my over forty years' experience seen tried a case that was as absolutely devoid of evidence as this. That is the honest truth. I have never seen one like it."

There was the time in Wilson, North Carolina, they said we and other good American citizens conspired to fix prices paid farmers for their potatoes.

This was the time Federal Judge C. C. Wyche directed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty".

It was the time Judge Wyche said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"In my opinion there is no testimony produced from which it can reasonably be inferred that the defendants entered into a combination to depress or lower the price of potatoes.

"I might say that I never tried a case in my life where a greater effort, more work, more investigation had been done, combing almost with a fine-tooth comb to gather evidence.

"But, as was said a long time ago, you can't make brick without straw, and you can't make a case without facts."

There was the time in Dallas, Texas, when they made practically the same "allegations" they are making today.

This was the time Federal Judge W. H. Atwell ruled that the case should not even be tried. He said that the indictment contained inflammatory statements that he would not permit to be presented to a jury.

It was the time Judge Atwell said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"I know of no American rule, and I wish I had the power to underscore the word 'American,' which permits us to try a man because of his size.

"If I thought I was presiding over a court and that I might have to sentence some person because he was a great big fellow, or because he was a Lilliputian, I would feel like resigning. God knows we don't want it ever to occur in America that the size is going to determine whether a man is guilty or innocent."

Red Tape Changes Number

SIERRA MADRE, Calif.—(AP)—The government is building a post office at what should be 309 Sierra Madre St. But the number on the building will be 303.

Inspector William Lees explained that officials erroneously listed the address as 303 when they mailed approval of the new site. "We decided it would be simpler to change the building number than risk involvment in red tape by insisting that the government change the number on its records," he said.

It is the second such tower to be constructed in Benton county and is locaed about four miles southeast of here on the Lakeview Heights road. It is said the greatest danger from forest fires is during the early spring and the autumn and winter months of November and December. For this reason tower men will be at their posts 24 hours a day at these particular seasons. Radio equipment has been installed with direct contact to other towers, headquarters being at Camdenton. A jeep with fire fighting equipment including a 180 gallon water tank and pump is furnished to each tower man. Funds with which to meet expenses of the tower will be obtained from the sale of fishing and hunting licenses. Important Election In England

LONDON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Britons formed the most important queue of the past five years as they lined up today to mark their "X" for or against re-electing their Socialist government.

A record vote in the national elections was expected as lines formed early and steady streams began moving through polling stations all over this island kingdom.

The choice before more than 34,000,000 voters:

Re-election of Prime Minister Clement Attlee's Laborites, pledged to put still more industries under state control; or a return to the Conservative rule of wartime premier Winston Churchill, who promised to halt nationalization but keep most of Britain's welfare state security measures.

Few women, long accustomed to queuing in shops, turned out for the early voting. One of them, however, was Mrs. Winston Churchill, wife of the Conservative party leader who hopes to unseat the Labor government.

Churchill Smiling

Churchill himself arrived to vote at St. Stephen's a couple of hours later. He was cheered as he waved his familiar "V" sign and stopped to pat the cheek of a little girl who handed him some flowers.

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison, the Labor party's chief political strategist, was among the first of the party leaders to vote. He cast his ballot near his suburban Eltham home and then drove to his headquarters in the Lewisham of London, where he is a candidate.

Attlee and his wife already had voted by mail in the Westminster district, which includes the Prime Minister's official home at No. 10 Downing street.

Prime Minister Cheered

The Prime Minister and Mrs. Attlee were cheered by a large crowd when they arrived at Labor party headquarters in Walthamstow West, the working class section of London where Attlee is a candidate.

Attlee shook hands with workmen repairing the street and joked: "I feel fine and I'm glad the weather's fine. Otherwise my opponent would blame me for the weather."

No incidents had been reported. But London's famous "bobbies" were primed for huge crowds which are expected to jam Trafalgar Square and Picadilly Circus tonight to watch election results flash from electric signs.

Most of the early voters were workmen coming off the night shift or others who report to work while the rest of the nation is still getting up.

The voting was expected to be close. Victory or defeat for the Laborites—in power since July, 1945—hangs chiefly on domestic issues.

Neither Would Help

For those people of England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland neither party promised any relaxation of the bleak austerity under which Britons have lived since wartime. And no party has suggested dropping the ambitious social services established after the Laborites came to power in 1945.

So the choice for Mr. and Mrs. John Bull is based on which kind of government they think will keep the breadwinner employed, lower their heavy taxes, boost their salaries and cut their living costs.

Many Britons were at some of the more than 5,000 polling stations before opening time in the gray winter dawn at 7 o'clock this morning (2 a.m. EST).

Workers in industrial Birmingham were stopping in at the polls on their way to work. In several London sections voters were scratching their ballots at the rate of three a minute.

In London and many parts of Eastern England the voters had dry weather. But in Western England and in Scotland many of them had to trudge through cold winter drizzles and nasty mists to cast their ballots.

Escapee Caught

LEBANON, Mo., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Carl Clee Perry, 59, was recaptured near Phillipsburg, Mo., yesterday, three days after he escaped from the Laclede county jail by digging through a brick wall with a can opener and stove poker.

Winter Slaps Ice And Snow Across Nation

Impedes Travel by Motor Car And Air; Walking Hazardous

By the Associated Press

Winter slapped a slippery punch of ice and snow across wide areas of the eastern half of the nation today.

The snow, sleet and rain impeded motor and air travel. Icy sidewalks made walking hazardous. There were hundreds of accidents and many traffic fatalities were blamed on the glazed streets and highways.

The sleet and snow hit hard over the northeastern part of the country as a rather intense storm moved northeastward across Lake Ontario. Southern New England was blanketed with the second biggest snowfall of the season, with falls measuring up to eight inches in some areas. The falls in the northern region measured were up to a depth of two to four inches. The snow turned to sleet and rain over most of the area during the night.

Snow, Sleet, Rain

Sleet, snow and freezing rains pelted New York state. New York City's rain and sleet made streets and sidewalks treacherous and slowed subway service along its above-ground routes and railroads. The Idlewild and La Guardia airports were closed.

Snow in New York

Snow and sleet in western New York made highways dangerous and clogged streets in Buffalo. Snow mixed with freezing rain fell in northern New York state.

Heavy fog over the Baltimore area last night forced the cancellation of all flights at the municipal airport.

Much of Pennsylvania was coated with ice after yesterday's steady freezing rain. Last night's church Lenten services were cancelled because of icy roads at Easton, Pa. Four to seven inches of snow were forecast for the mountain areas today.

Sidewalks in Newark, N. J. were a sheet of ice from freezing rainfalls and most pedestrians walked in the streets. Highway conditions were extremely bad and many accidents were reported. An eight year old boy was killed when his sled ran into a car.

The rain belt extended from Pennsylvania southward into Florida. Light snow was reported in Ohio, southern Michigan and from Wisconsin westward to the northern Rockies. Chicago's heaviest fall of the season, nearly five inches, helped to send the mercury down to 10 above today. Fair weather prevailed from the central and lower Mississippi valley westward to California.

Temperatures were mild from near Washington, D. C., southward to Florida. Elsewhere throughout the country readings were near normal levels. The only sub-zero temperatures were in sections of North Dakota and northern Minnesota. Today's low was 13 below zero at Pembina, North Dakota.

An impressive ceremony, highlighted with the unveiling of a bronze tree marker, to be placed under the Washington Elm, was held Wednesday afternoon on Washington's birthday in the upstairs east room of the Sedalia Public Library, before a group of about 50 persons.

Miss Nettie Lamm, who was president of Sorosis when the Washington Elm was purchased 18 years ago by Sorosis and the Osage Chapter D. A. R., and then planted in the Sedalia Public Library lawn, just east of the library entrance, presented the marker to Mrs. Elza Berry, president of the library board.

The marker, which will be placed under the tree in the near future, has the following inscription on it: "Washington Elm. This is from the parent tree under which George Washington took command of the Continental Army on July 3, 1775—presented to the Sedalia Public Library—placed by Osage Chapter D. A. R. and Sorosis—1950." So after being un-recognized by many Sedalia citizens for the past 18 years, the Washington tree will finally gain recognition. It is the smallest tree growing in the front lawn of the library.

Pledge Of Allegiance

Mrs. A. L. Walter, regent of the Osage Chapter, called the meeting to order and members of the two organizations, library staff and board members and a few special guests, joined in repeating the pledge of allegiance to the American flag. Miss Jessie Browneller, read a prayer by George Washington.

The history of the Washington Elm was related by Mrs. A. M. Hoffman, who said a tree sprout was purchased in the spring of 1932 through the efforts of Dr. J. E. Cannaday for $15, and then planted in the library lawn.

Escapee Goes To Trial Today

McALESTER, Okla., Feb. 23—(AP)—George Kimes, last of the notorious southwest badmen, went on trial in district court today on a charge of escaping from the state prison here.

He waived a jury trial and his case is being heard by Judge W. A. Lackey.

Kimes escaped July 2, 1948, and was arrested last year in Burns, Ore., when an amateur detective saw his picture in a detective magazine.

He was under a 50-year sentence following conviction on a charge of armed robbery.

X-Ray Clinic For Students At Court House

Equipment Brought To City by County Tuberculosis Society

The mass X-ray program sponsored by the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society started Wednesday at the court house at which time students of Smith-Cotton and Hubbard high schools were X-rayed free of charge. The teachers, secretaries and janitors were also X-rayed.

The total number X-rayed on Wednesday was 712. This morning students from the parochial schools of the city and from the surrounding rural schools were swarming into the court house where the machine is now located and were being X-rayed as fast as cards could be made out by Mrs. Alice Crawford, secretary of the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society and her assistants. They then went to the next room where they were X-rayed as quickly as the machine could be adjusted to the individual heighth and the picture taken, which only took a few seconds.

Open to Public

This afternoon the X-ray program was opened to the public and the program will continue for the general public tonight, Friday and Saturday with hours being in the morning from 10:00 to 12:00 o'clock; afternoon 1:00 to 5:00 o'clock and night 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock.

The X-ray equipment of the National X-ray Association was brought to Sedalia by the Pettis County Tuberculosis Society by means of the seal sale conducted each Christmas. It is operated by Frank Rano, X-ray technician supervisor and James Hann, his assistant, both of Orange, N. J., who do such X-ray work in all of the forty-eight states.

City Scales Bring Low Income But Are Important to the City

Revenue collected from the city scales is, one of the lowest city incomes, yet the scales are an important factor to the city, as it accommodates the farmer and the business man, and attracts strangers to this city, who might otherwise drive to another city where they could weigh a load of corn or hay.

Monies collected from the scales and city parking lot during the calendar year of 1949 totaled $1,574.65, and goes into the general operating fund of the city. Fees of 10 cents, 20 cents and 50 cents are collected from the scales, the prices varying according to the size of loads weighed. A gross load of under 10,000 pounds brings a fee of 10 cents. Over that weight, 20 cents. All loaded semi-trailers bring in a fee of 50 cents.

The present scales handle a load up to 49,000 gross pounds, and are tested at least once a year. The platform is 10 feet wide and 30 feet long. The last time the scales were inspected, they were approved and no repairs were recommended. The scales unit was built by the W.P.A in the years 1936 and 1937. Prior to this construction, old scales were located just south of the present scales.

Jack Mullaley Weighmaster

Jack L. Mullaley has been weighmaster for the past four years, by appointment. He operates the scales six days a week, from 7:00 o'clock in the morning until 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon. After hours up until 9:00 o'clock at night and on Sundays and holidays, firemen quartered at the fire station just across the alley from the scales, operate the weighing apparatus. Of course, when the firemen are on a run, the customer has to wait until the firemen return.

Mr. Mullaley said drivers of trucks loaded with hay and corn are the biggest customers, followed with coal trucks. Trucks loaded with poultry, eggs and glass also bring a lot of business. He said the Sedalia glass plant weighs nearly all its loads there. He added that gross loads of eggs totaled as high as 46,000 pounds. Occasionally, loaded trucks will pull in to get weighed and they are too heavy. So he said, we have to split the load. We do that by weighing the front end of the truck and then the rear end, he said. He pointed out that many trucks would drive up just to check the weight to keep with-

Dead Prior to Air Injection, To be Defense

Doctor Said To Have Admitted 'Mercy Killing'

By Henry L. Supple

MANCHESTER, N.H., Feb. 23—(AP)—Dr. Hermann N. Sander's chief defense lawyer asserted today that the country doctor will show that the cancer-ridden woman he is accused of killing was dead before he injected air into her veins.

White-haired Attorney Louis E. Wyman gave the first hint of the possible defense strategy after the prosecution told the 13-man jury that Sander admitted taking the life of the suffering woman at the pleading of her husband.

The indication of defense strategy that Mrs. Abbie Borroto, 59, may have been dead before she was given injections came in a question put to Dr. Harold L. Loverud, president of the staff at Hillsboro county hospital.

Mrs. Borroto died at that hospital on Dec. 4, after wasting from 140 to 80 pounds. Dr. Sander was arrested 25 days later when records librarian at the hospital noted reference to air injections on her medical chart.

Attorney General Objects

Attorney-General William L. Phinney leaped to his feet and objected to Wyman's question indicating that Mrs. Borroto was dead before given an injection.

Phinney said he would object "unless it is to be supported by evidence."

Wyman promptly told the court: "In due course we expect to do that, your honor."

The question Wyman put came after he suggested that Mrs. Borroto had been seen by a Dr. Albert Snay on the morning of her death—but before the arrival of Dr. Sander in her room.

Referring to Dr. Snay, Wyman asked:

"If he pronounced her dead, he being on the committee when the matter was reviewed, he would be able to give pretty reliable information to the committee, would he not?"

Dr. Loverud replied: "Yes."

Hospital Committee

The committee referred to by Wyman is a hospital committee which makes monthly checks on the records of all patients who have died.

Phinney had told the jury that "The motive behind any determined and premeditated killing has no bearing whether it be good or bad—the results are the same."

This remark followed Phinney's statement quoting Dr. Sander that Mrs. Borroto's husband had pleaded with him to administer the injections.

"Of so many mercy killings, no such thing exists under law," the prosecutor said in his 54-minute opening statement. "Such action is homicide."

Phinney also said the evidence would show that the 41-year-old country physician administered 10 cubic centimeters of air intravenously four times, and that the patient died within 10 minutes.

He quoted Dr. Sander as saying that she passed away "peacefully and quietly" after the injections.

May Contend Patient Was Dead

During cross-examination of the first state witness—Dr. Harold I. Loverud, president of the staff of the hospital — Defense Counsel Louis E. Wyman indicated the defense may contend the patient already was dead when the injections were made.

The white-haired defense lawyer asked Loverud if another doctor—Albert Snay—had seen her at 11:15 a. m. on the day she died before Dr. Sander entered her room before any air injections, and then pronounced her dead; also would he have been able to give reliable information?

Dr. Loverud replied "yes."

MoPac Train Is Derailed

PIEDMONT, Mo., Feb. 23—(AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad's fast Texas to St. Louis passenger train No. 8 was derailed last night when a rock slide fell in a cut just south of Gads Hill and the train smashed into it.

No one was injured although both units of the diesel locomotive and a storage baggage car were derailed. Gads Hill is about 120 miles south of St. Louis.

Other Missouri Pacific trains between Poplar Bluff and St. Louis were rerouted over the Belmont and Cairo branches of the railroad from Bismarck to Poplar Bluff.

A spokesman for the division superintendent said today the track probably will not be cleared until early tonight.

J. P. Carroll of St. Louis, was engineer of the train and Jess Lovelace of Poplar Bluff was fireman. W. C. Missey of De Soto was conductor.

Washington's Birthday a Holiday to Him

CHICAGO, Feb. 23—(AP)—High Glover, 34, drove his car into the Loop yesterday and parked it under a sign which read: "No Parking Except Saturdays, Sunday and Holidays."

When he returned and found a traffic ticket he called police. An officer told him he got the ticket because the police did not consider Washington's birthday a holiday.

Glover called the city hall to get a legal opinion from the corporation counsel. The switchboard operator told him it was legal holiday and the corporation counsel wasn't in his office.

Glover says he is going to appeal to police commissioner John Prendergast.

Important Events In World News

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The house passed today a fair employment practices (FEPC) bill stripped of enforcement provisions.

The vote was 241 to 176.

The bill, far short of what President Truman wanted, now goes to the senate. The house action came after a debate that started at noon yesterday and ran into early this morning.

The bill that finally emerged from the house fell so far short of what Mr. Truman wanted that many of its original supporters refused to vote for it. Southern Democrats opposed it solidly. They were largely responsible for having knocked all the enforcement teeth from the proposal.

It expresses a policy that there should be no discrimination against the minority groups in job opportunities and seeks to avert such discrimination through persuasion and education. It provides no penalties for anyone violating its major provisions.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Nine Missouri representatives, all Democrats, today voted for passage of a house measure for a fair employment practices commission.

They were Bolling, Christopher, Carnahan, Irving, Sullivan, Karst, Karsten and Welch.

Against the measure were Cannon, Jones and McGee, all Democrats and Short, Republican.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The United States is reported about ready to grant an emergency loan to Yugoslavia. The idea is to keep the Yugoslav economy from being strangled by a trade boycott led by Russia.

American officials said the loan — which would be this country's second to Marshal Tito since he broke with Moscow — would be relatively small. It might be $10,000,000 or $15,000,000, to be used for the purchase of U. S. cotton, petroleum and other urgently needed raw materials.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Evidence piled up today that the Truman administration is dead set against seeking an atomic peace conference with Russia at this time.

From President Truman himself came a warning that the nation "must not be misled by the vain hope of finding quick and easy solutions" for the world's difficulties — of which the atomic arms race is one of the greatest.

St. Louis Makes Appeal for Coal

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23—(AP)—St. Louis hospitals, their coal supplies all but exhausted, have directed a special appeal for relief to heads of two striking mine unions.

In telegrams last night to John B. Marchiando, president of the Progressive Mine Workers, and John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, the greater St Louis hospital council said:

"Hospital situation in St. Louis area desperate. Some using last of supply of coal today (Wednesday) with no relief in sight. Others have one week's supply Urge that you arrange means of furnishing hospitals with coal, either by opening mines or by permitting existing supply at mine to be hauled by hospitals with protection guaranteed by union."

The telegrams were signed by Maynard W. Martin, president of the council.

Supplies at the hospitals range from two to ten days, a survey indicated. All have reduced heat to a minimum and are conserving light in an effort to stretch their dwindling fuel supplies. Other institutions, such as orphanages and homes for the aged, also were affected.

Telephone Strike Is Postponed

Both Company and Union Workers Agreeable to Truman's Proposal

By Sterling F. Green

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The threat of a nationwide breakdown in telephone service, scheduled for tomorrow, has been lifted by union acceptance of a presidential appeal for a 60-day bargaining truce.

"We will bargain every day, 24 hours a day during that period in seeking a peaceful settlement," said President Joseph A. Beirne of the CIO Communications Workers of America.

President Truman asked that service remain uninterrupted while work goes on under present wage, hour and other conditions. Some Bell System companies accepted promptly; others were expected to do so.

Beirne quickly polled his executive board on yesterday's White House proposal. He announced the decision last night, notifying Mr. Truman by wire that the union recognizes its obligation to the "public interest and welfare."

Hope to Settle

"We have a sincere desire to resolve the issues through collective bargaining in an open, straightforward manner," Beirne said in a statement.

"In accepting President Truman's request for postponement of the strike, we take one more step in our continuing effort to preserve industrial peace."

The long lines division of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. wired the President it would be glad to continue bargaining "in a sincere effort to settle the dispute." The added time, it said, should be "useful in reaching an agreement."

Similar word came from the Western Electric Co., one of the key companies in the dispute, and others. In Atlanta, the Southern Bell Telephone Company went a bit further, and suggested the truce run until June 5.

Strike Set for Friday

The strike of 100,000 telephone workers had been set for 6 a.m., local time, tomorrow. Another 120,000 phone workers were due to join the walkout on March 1, when their contracts expire; these, too, are covered by the truce.

The President offered the "active assistance of the federal mediation and conciliation service" throughout the bargaining and asked for an "earnest" and "extensive" search for peaceful settlement terms.

But the bargaining was off to a bad start. A stalemate involving Western Electric was still unbroken after 48 hours of effort by Mediation Director Cyrus S. Ching.

Ching arranged for negotiations here, starting Tuesday, to cover the manufacturing workers in Western Electric, which is A.T. & T.'s manufacturing subsidiary.

Company Balks

The company balked, saying it would talk only in New York, where earlier unsuccessful talks had been held. The union refused to return its negotiators to New York.

Ching, deeply involved in the coal crisis as well, had found no solution to this stalemate today. Western Electric is important in the strike maneuvers, because its far-flung installation and sales force can set picket lines at every major exchange. Telephone operators, under CWA's charter, would be bound to respect them.

Beirne exempted only one CWA division from the White House truce agreement. Employes of the New Jersey Bell Company, who are barred by state law from striking, are engaged in state-sponsored mediation and should continue it, Beirne told Mr. Truman.

The President had sent his message to 25 local and national officers of CWA across the continent, and to 19 officials of A.T & T.'s divisions and affiliated companies.

Abandon Search For Five Airmen

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Ground search was abandoned today for five airmen who parachuted last week from a blazing B-36 air force bomber.

The Royal Canadian air force, announcing end of the search on heavily-timbered Princess Royal island, said a high-speed launch, an airplane and three helicopters would continue to patrol the sea and shorelines.

The U. S. airmen were part of a crew of 17 which parachuted from the ice-coated burning B-36 shortly before midnight Feb. 13. Twelve were rescued.

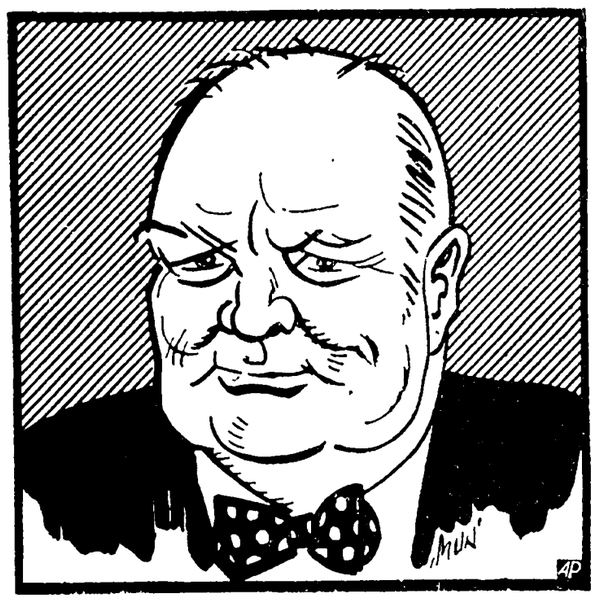
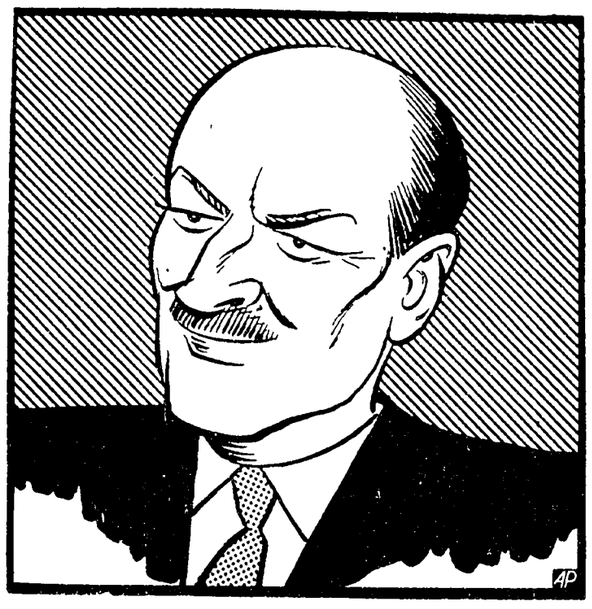
Opposite Numbers in British Election





AP Newsfeatures

Winston Churchill and Clement Attlee, leaders of the opposing parties in the British election today Feb. 23, come from similar social classes. Attlee, a lawyer and son of a lawyer, might be called upper middle class. Churchill, the grandson of a duke, is an aristocrat. Both attended the privileged public schools of England. Each was a leader in his party at an early age and each held various cabinet posts when his party was in power. But here the similarity ends.

Churchill has been the dashing soldier, trained at Sandhurst military academy. He is the brilliant writer and orator who has command of the telling phrase. He is the Conservative who backs the idea of empire.

At 75, he is more than eight years older than his opponent. Paunchy, with heavy jowls and a rugged jaw, he symbolizes John Bull.

As a soldier, he helped Spain quell rebels in Cuba in 1895 and fought on India's frontier in 1897. He was on the Nile in 1898 and in the Boer war in 1899-1900. He first went to parliament in 1900. He was first lord of the admiralty in 1911-15. And he was an officer in World War I, fighting for part of 1915 and 1916. Then he went back to the government in 1917.

In World War II he became the leader and symbol of his country's fight to defeat Hitler. As the days of appeasement drew to a close he again became first lord of the admiralty.

When war came he was called as prime minister.

His coalition government drew all groups of the nation together. His flaming oratory kept the confidence of the people and stirred his future Allies.

He had close ties with President Roosevelt and later worked with Joseph Stalin.

"I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat," he said when he became prime minister. And after Dunkerque: "We shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight on the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and in the streets, we shall fight in the hills, we shall never surrender."

But when Germany had been beaten, he lost the election to Attlee, the Socialist, who had been his deputy prime minister. The people, observer agreed, rejected the Conservative, not the war leader.

Churchill, his cigar still clamped in his teeth, his pudgy fingers still making the V for victory sign, joined the opposition. He slashed at Labor programs, scoffed at moves which, he said, broke up the empire.

Attlee is the scholar who took honors at Oxford. As a young man he joined the Socialist party when it was "not quite respectable." He went into the London slums to see how workingmen lived and himself worked for a time on the docks. Then he went into social work.

With a brush mustache, Attlee is slight. He smokes a pipe in contrast to the Churchill cigar. His speaking voice is thin and halting. Some observers say he is not brilliant. But they also speak of his clear thinking.

As a young man he worked in settlement houses, talked on street corners, taught in Socialist schools. He said he was a pacifist, but he enlisted in World War I and became a captain in 1915. When war was over he went into politics.

He worked closely with the Labor party when it was the opposition. And when it took over the government in the 1920s he held a series of vital posts.

When the coalition government took power at the start of World War II, he was one of the first Laborites asked to join it. Soon, he was deputy prime minister. As such he often appeared in the shadow of the brilliant Churchill. He worked loyally to help win the war. But once Germany was beaten his party got an election and won full control.

The Socialist program started with the nationalization of the Bank of England. It went on to take over fuel and transport. A cradletograve welfare program included free health service. Other sectors of the economy were marked out for taking over. Attlee worked quietly to push the plans through.

He found England facing trouble because the cost of war had wrecked vital parts of the economy. His ministers made austerity the rule. In some instances rations were lower than they had been during the war. But Attlee was grim in his drive to make the new England a Socialist country.

Critics were bitter. Attlee had no drama of war with which to answer them. He had no genius for oratory to present his ideas. He stuck to his logic and his quiet work. Things got done, but critics talked on. The date at which an election would have to be held was near. Attlee set the date.

Today he fights to hold power. He stands on his record and the ideas he found in the Limehouse slum district in early life.

'Confusion Agent' Charge

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The U. S. Army announced today it had arrested a young Russian woman described as a "possible Soviet confusion agent."

An army spokesman defined a "confusion agent" as a person who spreads confusion and makes trouble for the occupation forces. usually as a cover-up for others who do actual spying.

"Nine times out of ten a confusion agent deliberately lets himself be picked up, tells a dozen different stories, all untrue, to divert the attention of the authorities from the real espionage agents," the spokesman said.

The announcement said the woman, Regina Rowiskerja, had been arrested Feb. 14 at Heidelberg, the U. S. Army's European headquarters, after being shadowed by American agents since Nov. 15.

She was arraigned before the U. S. district court in Frankfurt Tuesday afternoon, the announcement said, on charges of failing to produce valid identity documents. She was taken to Preungesheim women's prison at Frankfurt pending her trial.

Unveil Bronze Marker For Elm Tree At Library

tory of the Sedalia Public Library and said this year was the 50th anniversary of placing the cornerstone of the library, and next year would be the 50th anniversary of opening the doors to the public. She said, May 20, 1895 was the first regular meeting of the Sedalia Free Public Library, and the early library was in the old court house. She further pointed out that in 1898, it was learned that Andrew Carnegie was contributing money for libraries throughout the country, and following a request, $50,000 was donated for the library here.

Introductions Made

They are: Mrs. Harve Terry, Lawrence Barnett, Herbert Zoernig, Ray Hunt, A. M. Hoffman, Victor Winnberg. Miss Hazel Gray, vice-president and Philip McLaughlin were unable to attend the ceremony. She then introduced the library staff: Miss Mary Kay Englis', Miss Marie Fritz, Miss Yvonne Leiter, Mrs. Virginia Wickliffe, Miss Doris Poulter and Fred J. Poulter. Special guests introduced were Mayor Julian H. Bagby, George H. Scruton, Jr., whose father, the late Col. G. H. Scruton was a president of the library board for many years, C. E. Messerly, Jr., who also represented his father, who was an active board member, and Dr. A. L. Walter. Mrs. Berry also paid tribute to the late Mrs. E. B. Burrowes, who was a member on the library board for many years.

Miss English made an announcement to the fact that the library has recently purchased a new record film reader, very similar to the one used by the Sedalia Democrat company. She pointed out that the recordak was purchased mainly for two reasons, the film of all the papers on file were in fire proof containers and insured the safety of valuable old papers, and it releases space in the library. She said three months of newspapers could be seen on one roll of film. She invited all those present to see the machine demonstrated, following the meeting.

Tea and individual cakes were served to the group, after the meeting was adjourned by Mrs. Walter. Mrs. Harold Dean of Sorosis and Mrs. A. L. Walter, of D. A. R. poured tea. Waited Three Hours, Then Too Weary to Talk

VAN NUYS, Calif., Feb. 23 — (AP) — Kept waiting more than three hours to give a speech last night, Dr. Robert A. Millikan, noted scientist, did what many an after-dinner speaker has no doubt wished to do.

He said: "At this hour, I fear the mind is too weary to listen to the speech I have prepared. I had intended to discuss one of the chapters in my new book, 'The Road To Peace.' Any of you who are interested may read the book."

Then he sat down.

The octogenerian educator retired head of California Institute of Technology at Pasadena and a Nobel Prize winner in 1923, had been invited to give the chief address at the Chamber of Commerce's annual dinner, attended by 300 members.

Census Crew Leaders Exams

Examinations for census crew leaders, who made application to the district office at Springfield, were given this afternoon in the basement of the Post Office building. The examinations were given by Mrs. Henrietta Alderson, assistant district supervisor, of Springfield.

O. P. Keller, supervisor for the Sixth district, who is also in Sedalia, stated Pettis county will have two leaders, to be selected from those who took the examination today. The others will also be qualified for census takers.

Examinations for the census enumerators will be given within the next ten days. The date for those examinations will be announced within a few days and applicants will be notified by postal card. Their notification will carry the time and place they are to report for the examination.

Mr. Keller explained there will be one crew leader for the Sedalia area and one for the county area. There will be 34 enumerators appointed to take the census. He expects to have the crew leaders appointed before March 1, and the enumerators by March 15.

Swanky Night Club Robbed

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Four armed bandits in a daring daylight, downtown holdup took $10,000 from Eddy's restaurant and cocktail lounge today and escaped in a car.

The bandits bound a Negro porter, who was cleaning up in the swanky night club, but did not molest any of the employes.

Three of the bandits entered through a door leading to a receiving dock on the west side of the building at 1300 Baltimore avenue in the heart of downtown Kansas City. The fourth bandit remained at the wheel of the car, parked in the alley.

After the holdup, the bandits fled southward in the alley behind the night club. Police said the car was either a blue Lincoln or a Mercury and that it had a Missouri license tag which had been issued to a truck owner in Fredericktown, Mo.

in highway laws, because certain type trucks are allowed to carry a certain amount of weight over the highways. For instance, a tandem wheel truck is allowed 28,600 pounds, whereas a single wheel drive is allowed a load of 18,000 pounds.

No Arguments

The weighmaster said since he has operated the scales there has been no friction or argument among the customers. He said one has to be careful with the scales and they have to be balanced every day. He added that they have to be checked several times a day during stormy weather, because at that time the platform gets wet and heavy. Just to prove his point, he balanced the heavy scales and then put a dollar bill on the weight end of the scales. The dollar bill caused the weights to fall to the bottom, and when the bill was picked up, the weights lifted into place.

Dry Climate Helped Asthma

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Green-eyed Janet Latsha did a bit of mountain climbing yesterday.

It was quite a trick for the seven-year-old daughter of Mrs. Wilma Latsha, Nacogdoches, Tex. She came here less than four months ago from a hospital in Oklahoma City.

Her doctors there said she was dying of asthma which has plagued her since she was 10 months old.

Janet was flown to this high dry climate last Oct. 14. At the time she was told her mother she wanted to climb the nearby 10,678-foot Sandias when she got well because mountains made her feel "close to Jesus."

At the time, the mountain climbing seemed far away. . .if at all possible. Janet weighed only 34 pounds. She was frail and in almost constant need of emergency care for her attacks.

Yesterday she finally did a little mountain climbing, raising hopes for the mother that their long battle with the affliction may be near an end.

It was the first time out for Janet since her plane ride here. Treated by the Catholic Sisters of Charity, she now weighs 46 pounds—described as near normal for her age. Her appetite has improved and her diet no longer as restricted as it was. She no longer needs emergency treatment and is more active.

She said she's looking forward to more trips to her mountains.

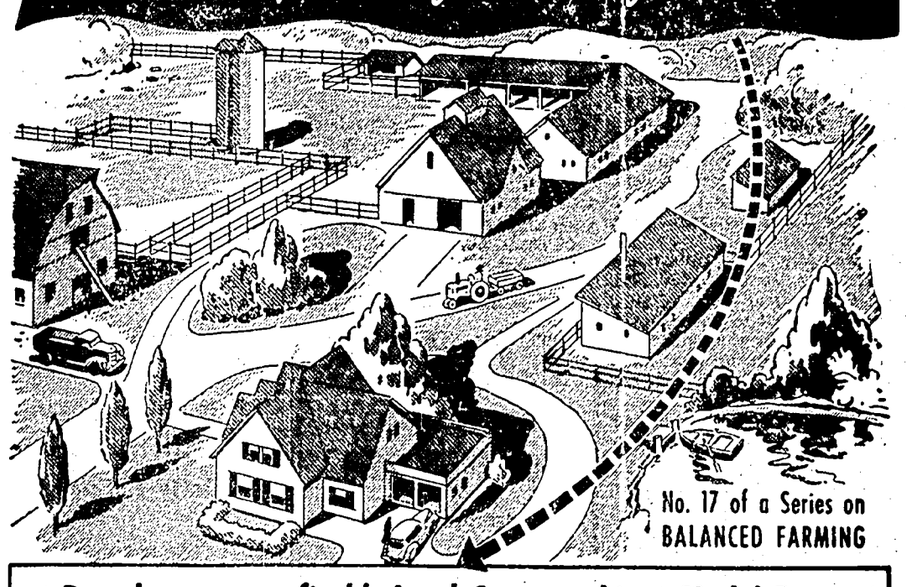
BALANCED FARMING Speaks for Itself!



No. 17 of a Series on BALANCED FARMING

Run-down, unprofitable Land Converted into Model Farm

Balanced Farming methods put into practice on Missouri farms have shown astonishing results. One farm, 17 years ago, was in poor, run-down condition with wide ditches 10 feet deep. The yield was so poor that only 20 cattle could be kept.

The owner decided to adopt Balanced Farming. As a result, four terraces were made—a test that "sold" the farmer on the idea. From 1943 to 1948 he built eleven miles of terraces. Now, all but 12 of the 199 acres are terraced. A silt basin and three ponds have also been constructed.

Today, you can drive across those old gullies in a car. Waste land is being profitably farmed and corn yield increased from 40 to 90 bushels an acre. Good hay is being produced and three times as many cattle grazed. The land has been limed and fertilized. Crops are rotated. An entirely modernized house completes the picture. That's only one example of the farm improvement Balanced Farming has made in dozens of counties in Missouri.

The 39 Balanced Farming associations operating in Missouri represent an effective approach to getting Balanced Farming under way rapidly. To start such a program on your farm, write the Missouri College of Agriculture, or see your County Agent.

The Prosperity of Missouri's Rural Communities Depends Largely Upon the Prosperity of the Farmer—As He Prospers, They Likewise Prosper.

The aim of Balanced Farming has always been to make farming more productive, pleasant and profitable. Modern utility service has a similar objective—to serve better, and make better living possible by supplying utilities and tested appliances at low cost. The investor-owned, tax-paying electric, gas, and water utilities of Missouri are proud of the part they have played in bringing comfort and convenience to more and more farm families and rural communities. Check your farm expenses and ask yourself what other items bring you so much comfort and convenience for so little. This low cost is due to the efficiency of employees and sound management on the part of your investor-owned electric, gas, and water companies of Missouri.

Mackenzie's Column

By Dewitt Mackenzie
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

This is the fateful day on which England's voters are deciding whether the Social government shall be continued in power or whether the country shall return to the system of free enterprise under which the empire reached its zenith.

One employs the word "fateful" advisedly, for it is possible that today's verdict may be irrevocable if Socialism again wins. That is so because if Socialism should get a further five-year lease of life, in which to complete its program of nationalization and other Socialist economy, it might be impossible to revert to capitalism even if the country wanted to. However, that is one of the imponderables which only time can solve.

Actually it's doubtful whether many of the 34,000,000 voters are carrying their analyses quite that far. They are being governed largely by concrete results already achieved in the way of raising the standard of life and in the prospects for the immediate future.

Expect Them to Be Influenced

On that basis one would expect them to be more influenced at this juncture by the tangible benefits of wholesale free medical treatment than by the early signs of the regimentation that is a necessary part of a welfare state.

The beginnings of regimentation, (even in peacetime), are seen in the regulation that the worker must apply for employment through a government agency and take the position which the government thinks best for the country, irrespective of the individual's desire. He can appeal to his trade union if dissatisfied, but the government has the last word. Raw materials are apportioned to industry on a similar basis of national need.

As the voters started to the polls this morning the prophets could only guess what the outcome might be. On the basis of the known party strength, the Laborites (Socialists) and the Conservatives were running close in votes. The Socialists claimed a margin but it wasn't large.

Few May Swing Elections

The outcome seemed to rest with some ten percent of the voters, made up largely of women who hadn't yet declared their intentions. This ten percent may hold the fate of the election in their hands.

Three parties are involved. Besides the Socialists and Conservatives, who form the major parties, numerically, there are the Liberals, who may be characterized as middle of the road politically. The Liberals have been showing new strength after a long period of great weakness.

Should either the Socialists or the Conservatives come to power without an overall majority of the 625 seats in the House of Commons, they would of course be at the mercy of a combination of the other two parties. This would give the Liberals a position of importance, as holding the balance of power.

Leader Will Form Government

The leader of the party which wins the greatest number of seats will be summoned by the king to form a government. If that leader doesn't have a safe majority he might decline the offer, whereupon the second strongest party would be invited to form a government and might accept if it could make a coalition with the third party. Failure to form a government would result in a new general election.

Naturally if the Socialists win, Prime Minister Attlee will continue to head the government. If the Conservatives should come to power one would expect the famous Winston Churchill to take over again. Should he for any reason not feel able to serve, former Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, who is second in command of the Conservative party, probably would take over.

Churchill Stirs Imagination

The 75 year old Churchill has again stirred the imagination of the public by his colorful and vigorous campaigning. The maestro has been in rare form, and his followers claim that he made a grand slam with his call for a conference on peace and atom control with Soviet Premier Stalin. Churchill himself says this issue has dominated the election, and if that estimate is correct it is likely to win him a good many votes.

Oh, well, so much for today. By this time tomorrow we shall know how the voting has gone.

S-C Tigers to Semi-Finals In Regional

Team Plays Tonight With Columbia At 7:30 O'clock

The Smith-Cotton Tigers journey to the Boonville regionals where they will clash with the Columbia quintet in the semi-finals tonight at 7:30 o'clock. The Tigers earned the right to play tonight by defeating Fulton 61 to 21 at the start of the meet, Tuesday night. Columbia goes another step in the meet by beating Jefferson City 27 to 25 in an overtime game, Wednesday night. The Jays and Kewpies played five and one-half minutes with the score tied at 25-all.

In the other tilt Wednesday night, Marshall cagers eliminated the St. Peters five of Jefferson City by a score of 46 to 38. Following the S-C and Columbia tilt, will be an encounter between Marshall and Boonville cagers. Boonville eeked out a victory over Kemper Tuesday night by a score of 41 to 40. The four teams eliminated from the regionals at Boonville are Fulton, Jefferson City, Kemper, and St. Peters.

The S-C squad: starters, Ruffin and Brown, forwards; Holst, center, Walker and McCrary, guards, and five others, Morgan, Shawver, Edwards, Lankenau and Johnson will leave for the meet from the Smith-Cotton high school at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The championship clash will be played Friday night. The winner will go to the state tournament in Columbia, next week.

Beloit Cagers Hold Top Record

BELOIT, Wis., Feb. 23 —(AP)— You can't win 'em all, but if you can come as close as Dolph Stanley has in 20 years of basketball coaching you're doing all right.

Stanley's Beloit college teams have won 28 straight Midwest conference games and five successive titles since he came here in 1945 after 15 years in Illinois' high school ranks.

His winning percentage, in both college and high school, is .842 Overall, Stanley teams have won 511 and lost 96 games. In the Midwest conference, a nine-team loop made up of teams from Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin, he's won 112 and lost 21

"Understanding the men is more important to a coach than knowledge of the game," he says.

"Too many coaches place their own personalities and styles of play ahead of the material with which they have to work. As a result, the players are forced to fit the only pattern the coach knows, instead of the coach finding a pattern to fit the players."

Golfers Tee Off In Houston Meet

By Max B. Skelton

HOUSTON, Feb 23—(AP)—Colorful Jimmy Demaret, who has had tough luck in most previous stops in his native city, went after the Houston Open Golf packpot today.

Demaret, born here 40 years ago, paced a field of 165 that was to tee off in the first round of the $10,000 tournament.

Demaret has finished no higher than fourth in previous Houston opens.

Demaret clipped off a few par-score holes late yesterday afternoon while tuning up on the layout he knows so well.

Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, did the front nine in a three-under 33

Mickey Cochran Re-joins Baseball After 12 Years

Two games will be played Saturday afternoon and two games will be staged Saturday night, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Sunday afternoon, two games will be played starting at 2.30 o'clock, and the finals will start at 7:30 p.m. The last games for first place will be played at 8:30 p.m.

An All-Star team will be picked by the referees and the coaches and a cup will be awarded the team taking first place. All cage players are under 15-years of age

68 Players Unsigned in Major Leagues

Nine Signed Contracts in Last 24 Hours

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—With just one week to go before the major league teams begin spring training chores, the front offices had 68 "dotted line" ceremonies remaining today.

Not that they're all holdouts on their 1950 contracts, but the fact remains that 49 American Leaguers and 19 players in the National loop still are outside the fold.

Nine players put the ink to the documents in the last 24 hours, including a couple of important operatives for the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers Latest to come to terms for Brooklyn was outfielder Gene Herbanski, whose signed contract was received shortly after the Brooks announced pitcher Jack Banta had come to terms.

Unsigned Dodgers

The Philadelphia Athletics reported that pitcher Lou Brissie, who won 16 and lost 11 games last year, had agreed to terms reported to call for about $15,000. Five other A's still are out, the most important listed as Bob Dillinger, third sacker.

Detroit finally got outfielder Vic Wertz on the line, reportedly for $18,000 per annum. This still left some big names on the outside looking in—pitchers Hal Newhouser, Fred Hutchinson and Paul Calvert, and outfielder Hoot Evers.

The Cleveland Indians reported three signers, infielder Herb Conyers, Ray Boone and Al Rosen, but six Indians still are on the warpath, including catcher Jim Hegan, pitchers Bob Lemon and Red Embree, and infielder Johnny Berardino.

It's Up To Pollet

At the same time, the St. Louis Cardinals signed pitcher Bill Reeder, leaving one player on the holdout list—star southpaw Howie Pollet.

The Cards said the next move was up to Pollet. At Houston, Pollet said he would remain away from the training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla., until he has signed.

Play Begins in Golf For Baseball Players

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—Match play begins today in the 11th National Baseball Players golf championship with Jack Russell, former Washington Senators pitcher, pacing the field of 42.

Russell won medalist honors yesterday in an "extra inning" battle with Wes Ferrell, former Boston Red Sox pitcher, and Lou Klein, Cincinnati Reds infielder They tied with 75s in opening play and Russell took the nine hole playoff with a one over par 36

Five players qualified with 77s. They were Paul Waner, former Pittsburgh Pirates outfielder; Allie Reynolds, New York Yankee pitcher; Dizzy Trout, Detroit Tigers pitcher; Dizzy Dean, former St. Louis Cardinals pitcher, and Ed Levy, formerly of the New York Yankees.

Judge Joseph Monahan of Boston qualified with 78 and Jim Arvea, Cincinnati Reds pitcher, tied Lou Kretlow, St. Louis Browns moundsman, with 79.

Curtis Mitchell and Leonard Mayo, both formerly with the Atlanta Crackers; Judge Phil O'Connell, president of the Florida International League, and Gerry Priddy, Detroit Tigers infielder, each had 81, completing the championship flight.

Last Defeat of Kentucky Was Jan. 2, 1943

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 23—(AP)—Kentucky shoots for its 83rd straight basketball triumph on its home floor here tonight against Xavier University of Cincinnati.

The Kentuckians are favored to beat Xavier handily. They drubbed the Musketeers in Cincinnati 58-47. Kentucky has a season's record of 20 victories and four losses; Xavier seven and 15.

Hope to Post No. 84

If any major college club can match it, Rupp would like to hear about it. If his "boys" keep hitting, they'll post triumph No. 84 Saturday night when they close out the regular season against Vanderbilt, currently leading the Southeastern conference race.

Kentucky is second in the SEC race with a 10-2 record against Vandy's 11-2. Rupp's own record is 405 victories against only 76 losses since he took over the coaching job here in 1930.

The last defeat of Kentucky on its home floor was by Ohio State, 45-10, Jan. 2, 1943. Against Southeastern conference competition only, Wildcats have compiled an even lengthier record — extending back 11 years and 45 consecutive triumphs to a loss to Tennessee by a single point (30-29) in January, 1939.

National Records

Princeton, unheralded and unsung at the start of the season, is sweeping all before it in the eastern "Ivy" intercollegiate basketball league and making it difficult for the district two NCAA selection committee to name a team for the post-season tourney

The Tigers nosed out Yale, 51-49, for their seventh straight league victory last night. Beaten only in their first league tilt by Columbia, Princeton now has a 7-1 league mark and can virtually sew up the title by beating Yale again in a return game Saturday.

The district two NCAA selection commitee has decided to wait until all regular season schedules are completed.

Villanova, which represented the district last year, seems to have the inside track at the moment, but CCNY, Canisius, Duquesne, LaSalle, Syracuse, St. Johns of Brooklyn, and now Princeton probably will be given consideration.

Trampled Hawaii

Villanova, sparked by Paul Arizin's 37 points, trampled Hawaii, 80-56, in the second game of a doubleheader at the University of Pennsylvania Palestra. The Hoyas of Georgetown (DC) trimmed Penn, 78-73, in the opener.

Mississippi surprised Alabama, 61-52, and Georgia Tech beat Auburn, 61-53, in the Southeastern conference.

'Wild Bill' Longson Beats Mike Sharp

The going was somewhat rough at the wrestling matches, Wednesday night, the contestants starting out scientifically and ending with Texas rules "Wild Bill" Longson, Salt Lake City, Utah, came through to win the main event by beating Mike Sharp of Hamilton, Ontario, Canada. The semi-windup between Vic Holbrook Hollywood, Calif., and Lee Henning, Buffalo, N. Y., went to a draw while in the special event Tommy O'Toole, Boston, Mass., stopped Vic Christy of Los Angeles, California in a one-fall contest.

Longson took the first fall in 12 minutes and 15 seconds after using his own atomic drop, and smother. The middle fall went to Sharp who roughed Longson up and got a body press in one minute and 36 seconds. Longson good at the rough tactics had Sharp all over the ring and after nine minutes and 39 seconds got a body press and won.

Henning was the winner of the opening fall of the semi-windup He and Holbrook went through the roughhouse act for 21 minutes and 21 seconds with Henning succeeding in applying the rolling press headlock to an advantage. The second fall was Holbrooks who used a bulldog headlock to win in seven minutes and 55 seconds. The match went to a draw when the time ran out.

O'Toole used a torturing headlock to win from Christy in 14 minutes and eight seconds.

The next wrestling show will be held at the armory on March 8, talent not being available for one next week.

Culler Worked Busher Trick, Wilks Balked in Winning Run For St. Paul

Alfonso Carrasquel

By Ted Wilks
St. Louis Cardinals' Relief Pitcher

My biggest boner happened with Columbus in the American Association and it gave Eddie Dyer a big knot on the head.

It was in St. Paul June 14, 1942. We fweren't going so well, and Manager Dyer wasn't happy

George Scala Jack Bruner

Naturally with Culler on third, I was taking a full but quick windup. He started off third base taking a normal lead, as I started my windup.

I was already into my windup when he suddenly yelled:

"Time. I want to tie my shoe."

I stopped my windup.

Culler and the rest o fthe St Paul players hollered "balk," and the umpires sent Culler home with the winning run.

Dyer jumped up out of our dugout, started after me. When he jumped up, his head hit the top of the dugout. I started for the clubhouse.

The blow on the head didn't knock Dyer out, but they tell me it dazed him to where he was just running around in circles in front o fthe dugout.

I was running for the clubhouse. We had lost the first game —that cost us the second—so I knew what was coming.

I thought the Skip was going to pop when he finally got to the clubhouse. He raved and he ranted, he walked up and down.

"You so-and-so Polack," he raged, "I ought to fine you every penny you've got, falling for a busher trick like that. If I had a gun I'd shoot you." He was mad!

Sports Roundup

By Gayle Talbot
(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—Your host is the only horse in the world with a personal publicity man and all that, but the eastern racing set will remain cool to the coast's pride and joy until it sees him win the Kentucky Derby. It's a state of mind, stemming from the fact that only one California oat eater ever won the three-year-old classic, and that 28 long years ago. . . . Harrison Dillard will compete both in the 60-yard dash and the hurdles if the K. of C. games at the Garden next week. He will tangle in the 60 with Andy Standfield of Seton Hall, who is suspected by some critics of being the swiftest dash man in the world at the moment. We'll take a small ticket on Dillard.

No baseball president stands more firmly behind his umpires than the Westminster Kennel club behind its judges. Breed fanciers will recall that there was an unhappy incident at the recent national show when an entry was "excused" from the ring by one of the judges, Mrs Beatrice Godsol of Canoga Park, Calif. She said the beast had been powdered. Its owner said among other things that the judge's eyesight was faulty. Upon reflection, the austere kennel club now "wishes it known that it has absolute confidence in Mrs. Godsol's integrity and it commends and thanks her for the manner in which she handled her entire assignment."

With a year of successful operation behind it, Cincinnati's new 11,000 capacity garden has taken it place among the nation's leading sports arenas In its first 12 months the Queen City garden drew 707,362 paying customers, 324,392 of them to sports events. . . . Bill Johnson, Jr., scion of the noted fight-promoting and managing Johnstons, has signed a two-year contract with CBS as a wrestling commentator on a big hook-up. . . . Tommy Henrich of the Yanks estimates he has averaged four nights a week this winter telling rubber chicken gatherings how he smacked that home run off Don Newcombe in the first game of the world series.

Second Round Clash In Two-ball Golf

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—The Bolesta brothers, who stole the spotlight from the Bauer sisters, meet today in a featured match of the International Mixed Two-Ball golf tournament.

Burl Bolesta and his partner, Kathryn Hemphill, both of Tampa, spilled Alice Bauer, oldest of the Midland, Tex., sisters, and Al Besselink of Detroit, one up in 19 holes yesterday.

George Bolesta of Tampa and Babe Zaharias of Prairie View, Ill., made up the hottest pair of the first round. While a strong wind sent other scores soaring, they whizzed through a 6 and 5 decision over Mr. and Mrs. Lee Costen of St. Clair, Mich., and were six under par as they closed it out.

Another surprise yesterday came in the victory of Patty Berg of Chicago and Earl Stewart of Dallas over co-medalists Marilynn Smith of Wichita, Kas., and Herb Minert of Gary, Ind., one up.

Marlene Bauer and home pro Denny Champagne got by Bea McWane of Birmingham and Clay Gaddie of Cincinnati, 3 and 2.

Calumet Trio Dominate The Golden Gallop

Citation, Ponder And Two Lea to Run Saturday

By Bob Myers

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 23—(AP)—Anyone who bets against the powerful Calumet entry of Citation, Ponder and Two Lea in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap must be slightly touched in the head.

The Calumets probably will go postward at a prohibitive price of about one to four, and rightly so. Citation, if he's back in his old form of 1948, would be worth that price alone. Ponder looks like the solid member of the Calumet threesome, and the filly, Two Lea, cannot be ignored on any grounds, including her sex.

13th Running

Touched or not, the bargain hunters will be well represented at Santa Anita Saturday for the thirteenth running of the golden gallop. And after the one to four Calumet trio, the next price doubtless will be no less than eight to one, and that isn't exactly a short one.

From that figure the opportunities for the longshot boys increase. By the time the Foxcatcher farm's filly, Gaffery, is reached they will far exceed the fat 60 to one paid off by Tony Pelleteri's Bay View when he scampered through the slosh and won the 1941 hundred grander.

Possibly the two nearest rivals to the Calumets for public fancy will be Ben F. Whitaker's My Request and Charles S. Howard's Irish-bred Noor.

Won a Sprint Tuneup

My Request was rated the nation's number three performer to Citation and Coaltown as three-year-olds in 1948, and he won some good stakes last year. But he has raced here only once this season, winning a sprint tuneup

Noor established himself as a real threat in the San Antonio handicap Feb. 11. Ponder won the race by a length over Citation, and Noor was a mere half length behind big C.

That was at a mile and one-eighth. Citation packed 130 pounds, Ponder 128 and Noor 114 The big handicap is at a mile and one quarter, Citation carries 132 Ponder 124 and Noor 109. If distance and weight make a difference, Noor gains and the two top Calumets lose.

The Howard horse runs against three Calumets instead of two, of course, and so do the others in the field. That makes three reasons, instead of one or two, why anyone has to be a little touched in the head to tackle the big entry.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—Lavern Roach, free-swinging young Texan who three years ago was acclaimed boxing's brightest prospect, battled death today after being knocked out in a comeback try at the ring big time.

The Plainview, Tex., middleweight was in "critical" condition at St. Claire's hospital, unconscious and in an oxygen tent.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello, physician for the State Athletic Commission, said it would be 48 hours before he could give a decision on the fighter's chances of survival.

Smashed Canvas Twice

Roach (159), who turned 25 yesterday, was smashed to the canvas twice in rapid succession by George Small (159 ½) of Brooklyn in the last round of a bloody ten-round melee last night at St. Nicholas arena.

Referee Frank Fullam stopped the fight at 1:57 of the round. Roach, hauled to his corner, talked with his handlers and several times attempted to leave the ring under his own power.

Soon, however, he passed out and, after an on-the-spot examination by Dr. Nardiello, was taken to St. Clare's where less than two months ago Bronx heavyweight Carmine Vingo was carried with a similar critical injury.

Contusion of the Brain

It was to determine whether he could come back to the fighting big time from which he was tumbled in March, 1948. It was then that he was stopped by the late Marcel Cerdan of France.

Roach, who began his professional career in the fall of 1945, was honored by Ring magazine as the 1947 "rookie fighter of the year."

He was doing well against Small, a 23-year-old power puncher, until late in the conflict. He was ahead on all the officials' cards and only a knockout apparently could cost him the verdict.

Midway of the eighth Small exploded a right on Roach's mouth. Lavern's knees buckled, but he hung on, blood streaming through his teeth. He fought a hard ninth.

Then early in the tenth Small banged Roach to the floor with a right to the jaw. Roach rose weakly at the count of nine, only to be felled again. The referee stepped in to halt hostilities without counting.

Suspension of Students Over

BETHANY, Okla., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Four Bethany high school students, suspended after a walkout and a "queen kissing" incident last week, were free to return to school today.

The school board lifted the ban imposed by Superintendent Harry Edwards at a meeting last night. Students and their parents were interviewed by board members during a long session.

The parents said the board did not ask for apologies and would accept the re-admission "without compromise."

Meanwhile, Attorney Fred L. Sikes, representing a citizens committee, worked overtime in preparation of legal papers for a district suit to oust the Bethany school board, superintendent and principal.

W. E. Bleakley, committee chairman, said the suit "will charge school officials with incompetence and permitting a religious sect (Nazarene) to dominate policies."

The dispute started after 16-year-old Charlotte McLain was kissed while being crowned basketball queen. Public kissing is taboo in Bethany.

The school board, in re-admitting the students, said:

"Suspension has been lifted for those who agreed to return, to co-operate willingly and to abide by regulations. All others will be re-admitted on the same basis."

What a Kisser

Riddell Riggs (above), 16, split the central Oklahoma town of Bethany in two when he kissed basketball queen Charlotte McClain, 16, at a coronation ceremony. Bethany is a Blue Law city with a large part of the population attending the Nazarene church. Because of a taboo on kissing, students anticipated repercussions and staged a walkout. Five were suspended and some angry parents threaten court action. (AP Wirephoto)

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

"PERILS OF PAULINE" included Indians—still a number one movie peril Pearl also encountered quicksand, high cliffs, trap doors, vicious animals, fire, flood, earthquakes and assorted supernatural horrors The movie serial, with adventures parceled out one blood-curdling episode a week, began in 1913 when movies were very young Pearl White the Pauline of the "Perils" was the undisputed queen of these 'cliff-hanger" movies The end of each week's episode found her on the brink of catastrophe—so far gone, in fact, that the whole thing looked hopeless Nothing could stop your coming back next week to find out how in the world the heroine escaped fates worse than death Today's counterparts of cliff-hanging Pauline are as near as your neighborhood movie.

Hal Boyle
COLUMN

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—America is full of people who want to do something big — but just sit around and talk about it.

Such is the sad life story of Mel Allen, one of the most successful failures in the history of sports.

Mel always yearned to be an athlete, particularly a star baseball player. Today he lets Joe Dimaggio play the game, while he just sits and talks about it.

But there is a golden lining to his cloud. Allen gets between $150,000 and $200,000 a year for his oral exercise. And when he thinks of this career irony, he well might employ a phrase familiar to millions of his fans:

"How about that?"

Managed The Team

"As a kid I woke up every day for sports," said Mel, recalling his hole-in-the-shoe youth down south.

"I wasn't good enough to win a baseball letter in the field at the University of Alabama, so I got one by being student manager of the team."

He earned a law degree, too, and passed the bar. But he did not hang out his shingle. He preferred a job in Birmingham broadcasting football games. The salary: $5 a Saturday — in season.

Allen came to New York as a CBS announcer and soon switched to sports. Now he broadcasts the New York Yankee baseball games, has a weekly network program of his own, does two newsreel sports casts a week, the world series, the all-star games and special boxing and basketball events.

Secret of Success

"To me sports are still glamorous — and always will be. I'm still country boy enough to be thrilled by the personalities and I get as excited as any other fan."

Mel, a handsome 6-foot-one-inch bachelor lives simply with his parents and brother, likes to cook his own breakfast. Whenever he can, at home or on the road, he works out with the Yankees to keep in shape.

"You can play every hop of the ball perfectly — except for the last one."

Room For Improvement

"Graham McNamee was the pioneer in sports broadcasting," he said. "But we all look upon Ted Husing as the guy who set the modern pattern. Graham emphasized description. Ted was the first to concentrate on accuracy and play by play accounts—as well as color.

"There is still room for tremendous improvement, but in the last ten years announcers around the country have realized they must be accurate above everything else. Today you have to know a game as well as a coach or player does. Television has done that."

Before you buy that gabby son of yours a toy microphone and rules book, listen to Mel on the opportunities in sportscasting:

"There are only 25 jobs in the country a fellow would want to work up to and say, 'This is it—this is where I want to stay the rest of my life.'

"But, of course, there are a lot of sports announcing jobs that pay a good reasonable living — perhaps 200."

GOOD RISK—Samuel S. Fels, president of a Philadelphia soap company, celebrated his 90th birthday by doing a full day's work just as he has for the past 74 years. Sixty years ago an insurance company turned him down for a policy because he was considered a doubtful risk.

Dies In Crash Of A Jet Plane

MANHATTAN BEACH, Calif., Feb. 23—(AP)—An aircraft technician was killed in the flaming crash of a jet night fighter plane Wednesday which started a spectacular oil fire.

The pilot, however, bailed out successfully, suffering leg and arm fractures in his parachute descent which ended with him dangling unconscious in a tree.

The dead man was identified as Arthur Turton of nearby Redondo Beach. His body lay amid scattered wreckage of the two-place F-89 plane.

The pilot is Charles Tucker, 30, of La Crescenta, Calif. He has been a test pilot for Northrop since 1948.

Witnesses said the plane seemed to explode in the air at about 500 feet elevation. Flaming wreckage set fire to oil in an open sump pit on Standard Oil Co., property at El Porto Beach.

Autos Collide On Abell Road

A collision of a 1949 Ford coach driven by Eugene H. Doncarlos of Prairie Home and a 1937 Ford coach driven by Mrs. Georgia Viola Glazebrook, of Longwood, occurred about five and a half miles southeast of Sedalia on the Abell road at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The driver of the 1949 Ford was arrested by the state patrol and is to appear in magistrate court at 10:00 o'clock this morning.

The car driven by Mrs. Glazebrook was damaged considerably on the front end and was towed to Chamberlin's garage.

Charge Slaying Of Her husband

LURAY, Va., Feb. 23—(AP)— An attractive 26-year-old redhead, held since Sunday in the fatal shooting of her husband, a Bataan death march survivor Wednesday was charged with murder.

"I didn't do it; Oh, I didn't do it," cried Mrs. Barbara Parks as sheriff Abram Brubaker and state police special investigator C. A. Seal served the murder warrant on her in her Page county jail cell.

She has been held in the county jail since shortly after she called officers to her home near here where they found her husband, Robert Franklin Parks, 38, retired army captain, dead of a bullet wound in the heart. The widow said the shooting occurred accidentally.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Move For Alternate Capital

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—After the Jackson-Jefferson day dinner, some began considering the gruesome question as to what would have happened if an enemy had sent a surprise plane over the Arctic circle on February 16 and dropped an A-bomb on Washington.

Not only were the President and vice-president under the same roof, but also every member of the cabinet, the Democratic governors of ten states and a good part of the Senate and House of Representatives. The speaker was also present, and if such a catastrophe had occurred, it would have been up to a speaker pro tem to convene the House, while Senator McKellar would have had the power to convene the Senate.

Whether Congress would have then called for special elections or whether the Republicans would have taken over the administration is a debatable question. Undoubtedly, however, the Republicans would have had to take over for the time being, since few Democratic leaders would have been left, and since three to six months would have been necessary to make nominations and conduct the final balloting.

There would also be the question of who would declare war with part of Congress gone, and who would make the vital decisions necessary to carry on a war.

These are just a few of the problems which aren't pleasant to think about but which have to be considered in view of the now definite fact that Russia has all our atomic secrets. This is also why the administration, after inexcusably long delays, is finally working on civil defense, including an alternate capital of the United States.

Speculation is that an alternate capital would be safest somewhere in the Rocky mountains, possibly Denver or Salt Lake City.

Recently Karol Folta, head of the Sovak Democratic party, was branded as "a spy for the United States" and sentenced to death following a secret trial. The tragic news reached the condemned man's three brothers, who left Czechoslovakia long ago and now live in Minneapolis. They appealed to Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota to see whether anything could be done.

Humphrey made a personal appeal to the Czech ambassador, Dr. Vladimir Outrata, arguing that "it is inconceivable that one could receive a death sentence for the alleged conveyance of information for the United States or any other country with whom Czechoslovakia is at peace."

Ambassador Outrata wrote back: "The penalty was carried out before your letter arrived. . .

"I appreciate the fact that the United States are in a fortunate position where it is not necessary for them to penalize the crimes of treason, espionage, etc., by death in time of peace. Unfortunately the position of small and dangerously exposed Czechoslovakia is naturally different, and the Czechoslovak government must, although reluctantly, resort to this extreme measure of justice. The case of Karol Folta is just one of such cases."

But the amazing follow-up is that three weeks later the Folta brothers received a matter-of-fact letter from Czechoslovakia saying their brother was still awaiting execution. Senator Humphrey also received a direct letter from the Czech underground informing him that Karol Folta is still alive in the Leopoldov prison. The senator has now written another letter to Outrata, pleading again for Folta's life. But so far the ambassador has given no explanation.

A Little Alibi, Now and Then, Is Needed by the Best of Men

By Bruce Blossat

Not for 13 years has any newsman had an exclusive interview with a president. But Arthur Krock, New York Times' Washington chief who gained an audience with Mr. Roosevelt in 1937, now has managed the same trick with President Truman.

Krock's outstanding impression is of a chief executive serenely confident that despite all the world's perils man's better nature somehow will prevail and atomic warfare will be avoided.

No one can take this confidence away from the president. Nor would anyone want to. It would be real ground for general despair to know that our highest responsible official had given up hope of peace. Americans — indeed, the world — should welcome his optimism.

Mr. Truman is perhaps somewhat too charitable toward the Russians, however, when he says their chief trouble is that they still fear us and feel inferior toward us. That excuse seems a poor one for many of their brutal excesses.

Krock led the President to dwell on such varied subjects as Administration spending, socialism and the American economy, the Hiss case and civil rights issues.

Mr. Truman assured Krock his economic goal is to make America's free system work better, not to replace it with socialism. "There is not a drop of Marxist or socialist blood in me." he said. He insisted also he wants to balance the budget as badly as anyone, and will accept suggestions on how to do it.

There's no reason at all to doubt the President's statement that he has no socialist leanings. But his remarks on budget deficits sound frankly political. He blames the 1948 Republican tax cut for th entire deficit of the current year, even though it is expected to run well beyond the largest estimates of loss from the tax reduction bill.

Responsible Democrats like Senator Douglas of Illinois, who stands firmly for Mr. Truman's social program, believe substantial economies can be achieved without hurting necessary government services. Yet the President suggests cuts in spending are impossible.

His response to some of Krock's questions indicate that Mr. Truman has either forgotten or is glossing over things that he said months and years ago.

For example, he was asked about the "sense of inadequacy" he expressed when he took office on Mr. Roosevelt's death. At that time Mr. Truman repeatedly and often strikingly declared his unfitness and his distaste for the job.

Now he says he intended simply to indicate he felt unprepared because he wasn't briefed on the urgent problems of that hour and didn't know where to turn for wise counsel. Those who remember his original words are apt to feel a better answer is that the President has just grown to like his work.

Likewise, his defense of his frequent "red herring" comments on the Hiss case and related spy activities sounds a trifle contrived. He says he never meant to minimize the disclosures themselves but merely the methods by which the House un-American Activities committee made them public.

Mr. Truman could have made that distinction clear on any of the occasions when he used the term "red herring." But he didn't. His regular recourse to that phrase looked more like a cover for the Administration's embarrassment, especially over the fact that the House group rather than a government agency made the revelations that broke the case wide open.

But these aren't intended as carping criticisms. Krock's interview shows the president basically honest, courageous, imbued with high faith. Yet still enough like the rest of us to indulge in the common human practice of trying to explain away failures and adding a ruddier glow to some of his acts than they originally had.

We Mustn't Flinch in the Face Of Mounting Russian Threats

This is a time of supreme urgency in America. Not since Russian fighters buzzed our airlift planes over Germany have we had greater need to view the future with courage and determination.

Dr. Harold Urey, atomic scientist, tersely expresses the danger: "If the H-bomb is created there will be no place to hide."

Another eminent scientist, Dr. Vannevar Bush, warns that the only real defense against the A-bomb or the H-bomb or any other explosive weapon is to keep it away from our shores.

Urey underlines that warning by telling us that not only Russian bombers but innocent-looking tramp steamers which slip almost unnoticed into our harbors may bear the dreaded explosive cargo.

He forsees a possible Soviet effort before the year is out to split European Atlantic Pact nations off from us by mining their key harbors with atomic charges.

Rumors are rife that Russia may strike any time at defiant Tito in Yugoslavia or at Finland, tiniest partner in the Soviet Union's circle of compulsory friends.

Admiral Sherman, chief of naval operations, declares the Russians have a vast submarine fleet in Asiatic waters. Military experts see submarines as prime carriers of super-explosives for possible launching against our island outposts or our western shore.

Air Secretary Symington goes him several points better, asserting that Soviet dictators have the world's largest armed forces and are capable of a surprise attack upon any part of America's 3,000,000 square miles.

These signals of peril have not gone unheeded. The cry for action to stave off civilization's ruin has risen everywhere. And that call has been answered, by Secretary of State Acheson, with the full support of President Truman.

Our policy for dealing with Russia in this hour is to be founded solely on strength and power. For these blunt tools of diplomacy are the only ones which impress Moscow.

Let the meaning of that decision sink in. There'll be no more big-power meetings, no peace treaties with Germany and Japan, no disarmament or atomic control talks until we and our friends among free nations are strong enough to establish conditions that Russia must accept whether it wants to or not.

We do not have that kind of strength now. Therefore it is clear we must set about getting it without delay. Otherwise our policy of power is a string of empty phrases.

As a beginning we must stop deluding ourselves that we do have such strength. Nothing is more dangerously misleading than the statement of Secretary of Defense Johnson that we're ready to "go over and lick hell out of Joe Stalin."

The truth is we plan to reduce our military budget for the coming fiscal year by some $2,000,000,000. Obviously we aren't going to get more defense for less money.

To obtain the power we need will force us to some hard choices. Expanded military strength almost certainly will mean contracted civilian comforts. We'd better find out soon where those choices lie—and start making them. We can't stand off a world-wide menace while enjoying business as usual.

Our military and scientific experts must make the maddening decision as to the relative value of atomic bombs, guided missiles, long-range bombers, naval forces and land armies in a future war. We must seek balance in our strength.

We can't assume any weapon, including a hydrogen bomb, would give us decisive advantage even if we had it exclusively. And the story of Dr. Klaus Fuchs' spying is a reminder that we'd better not count on sole possession. Spies don't go out of business just when the stakes get bigger.

The way ahead is grim. To travel it we need calmness and unflinching courage.

SUBCONSCIOUS RESENTMENTS

They tell us that if a rattlesnake is cornered it will become so angry that it will bite itself. That is exactly what all harboring of hates and resentments against others is—a biting of oneself. We think we are harming others in holding these spites and hates, but the deepest harm is to ourselves; for many times these resentments are dropped into the unconscious, the lid is shut down on them, and there they work their unconscious havoc. Unconscious resentments are often just as potent for disruption as conscious ones.

A young woman could not raise her arm, which seemed paralized. It was found that, when angry, she had a secret desire to strike her mother. When the reason for the paralysis was shown and she gave up her resentments against her mother, the arm was rstored to normal health again.

A similar case was that of a man who was constantly falling from his horse. He wondered why he couldn't stay on. It was discovered that he had a secret desire to commit suicide, and this falling was the outer sign of that secret desire. When he gave up the hidden resentment he held against life, then he ceased falling from his horse.

A pastor and his wife had a disagreement over their pastoral appointment—he wanted to move, and she didn't. When the bishop made the appointment and moved them she was very bitter and resentful—especially as the husband, wanting to avoid a crisis, stayed away and let her do most of the packing up! After some weeks of harboring this resentment she became ill—she could not get her breath. She went to the new appointment an invalid and rather resigned herself to a life of invalidism. When she saw that the harbored resentments were at the basis of her illness—had paralyzed the nerve fibers which control breathing and that she literally was choking herself to death by her resentments—she surrendered the whole thing to God, became reconciled to the new place, arose out of her invalidism, and is today a radiant, happy, and useful person.

O Christ, I now begin to see why Thou wert always urging man to get rid of anger and resentment and ill will, for Thou didst see by Thy penetrating eye the havoc wrought within the whole person by his hates. Forgive us that we have not seen. And forgive us that, after seeing, we do not surrender. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Few Days in Bed Helps Cure A Troublesome Sore Throat

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Lucky the person who has never had a sore throat. Some sore throats follow or are part of an ordinary cold. Others are simply tonsilitis or are infections which act on the throat without spreading up to the nose or down to the voice box and lower breathing tubes. In some cases sore throat is associated with diseases elsewhere in the body, like digestive upsets or gout.

Because nearly everyone has suffered from a sore throat, it hardly seems necessary to decribe the symptoms. However, before the throat gets really "sore" there may be a little feeling of uneasiness or difficulty in swallowing or tickling or dryness in the throat with a desire to cough and hawk. Staying at home in bed at this stage not only might shorten the course of the sore throat but also it would avoid passing the infection on to others.

Most bad sore throats are caused by germs called streptococci which were present in milk or some other foods. The proper handling of milk and pasteurization, as well as refrigeration, has greatly reduced the frequency of this kind of sore throat.

In a severe sore throat chilly feelings and slight fever are common. Occasionally the body temperature may rise quite high, especially if the tonsils are involved. The usual variety of acute sore throat does not require much more than a few days rest in bed. Spraying the nose and throat with simple solutions help some people and sometimes painting the throat, if it does not seem to clear up promptly, speeds recovery.

Comfort is greatly increased by the use of hot compresses or an ice bag applied to the neck. The use of powdered sulfa preparations may be of value. The discomfort can often be relieved and the fever brought down by the use of aspirin. Although they should not be taken too freely, the sulfa drugs and penicillin or its newer relatives are likely to be particularly beneficial.

Find the Cause

Occasionally a chronic sore throat may follow a number of acute attacks. This is especially common in someone who drinks alcohol to excess, smokes a great deal or who uses his or her voice often and hard. In the treatment of this type of sore throat, the general health must be looked after.

The particular cause which is keeping the sore throat from getting better should be looked after and stopped if possible. For example, those who come from excessive use of the voice may merely require a fairly long period of silence. Gargles, sprays and the like may bring temporary relief. Removal of diseased tonsils may be of great value in certain cases.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

Snake Eyes—

End of a Chapter

By Edwin Rutt

MURIEL HALLECK ignored Alice determinedly and went on with her story.

"I tried to cope with young Rick, but his terror of the storm put him beyond reason. You saw how he acted the day he threw that tantrum—"

Alice nodded and Muriel went on. "Finally I lost my temper. I remembered that ugly little whip. It had belonged to Brent's father, who used to raise dogs. I got it and—"

Again she paused as Alice squeezed her hand. Anyone but Muriel Halleck might have burst into tears.

"Honestly though, Alice," Muriel continued, "after the very first blow, I just tapped Rick. But that was enough to scare the poor child to death.

"Well, Brent heard the commotion and woke up in the middle of it. He came charging out of the bedroom. And, really, I thought for a moment he was going to kill me.

"He grabbed me and slung me back into our bedroom. That's how I got those awful bruises on my arm. I knew you didn't believe my story about banging into something in the night."

Alice nodded, realizing that she had thought the bruises were further evidence of Brent's cruelty.

"Then I heard you come," Muriel was still speaking. "Afterwards Brent came into the room and hung the whip in my closet. He said—" Muriel winced "—that I'd better keep it among my own things if I was so blasted fond of it. But until now I've let Brent take the—the rap. With you."

"It's all right now, Muriel," Alice said.

"Now it is, but it wasn't before. Don't you see, my dear? I just couldn't go off to California letting you believe a rotten thing like that about Brent."

Muriel's head came up and she managed a smile. "I'm an ambitious, self-centered woman, Alice, but I'm not all bad."

Muriel rose and stood again by the door, ready to leave.

• • •

NO, Alice thought as she stood facing Muriel. She wasn't all bad. It had taken courage for her to come here today.

Alice said slowly: "I'm very glad you told me this, Muriel. And now I'm going to tell you something. I think you ought to go back to Brent and Rick."

Muriel shook her head decisively.

"No. That's out of the question, Alice. I've tried to be very honest, I think, about everything except that one disagreeable episode. But Brent and I have drifted apart for a long time. It started even during the war."

Alice recalled the local gossip at Tolliver that resulted from Brent's failure to return home on leaves and his getting assigned to occupation forces after the war.

"Maybe I'm to blame," Muriel said. "I admit to being cold-blooded. You have to be, if you want, more than anything else, to get to the top of the world. But I also found that I had to be honest all the way around. That's the result of a good middleclass Indiana training, I suppose."

She sighed. Then she held out her hand.

"Good luck, Alice," she said, with a trace of a smile. "I won't ask you what's going to happen next. Because, keeping up this appalling honesty—or cold-bloodedness—of mine, it doesn't make the slightest difference in the world to me."

"Good luck to you, too, Muriel," Alice said, clasping the hand. "You're a brave woman."

After the handshake, Muriel Halleck turned and was gone.

Alice Pine stood in the doorway for a moment and then she closed the door and locked it. She had to take time to think.

ALICE sat down on the edge of the bed, her hands clasped in her lap as she went over each detail of that summer.

Why had she doubted Brent Halleck? She had known deeply, within herself, that he was incapable of being cruel to little Rick. But the evidence had seemed too conclusive to ignore.

Brent had been trying to hide that whip, not because of his own guilt but because of Muriel's. And Brent had not corrected Alice's false impression of the incident because he was just what Chuck Wisner had said he was: "A strange guy and a very swell guy."

Even after her conversation with Chuck Wisner in Tolliver that one afternoon, when Chuck had told her many things about Brent and about Muriel, that ugly whip and the night of the storm had remained in her mind.

Alice did not blame Muriel so much for letting her think the worst. It was payment, perhaps, for Alice's falling in love with Brent while Alice was supposed to be loyal to her employer.

Muriel might not really care for Brent, Alice told herself, but after all, Muriel had been in love with him once. And in spite of what Muriel had said, she must have had some feelings when she saw Brent hold Alice in his arms, even for a brief instant, that night on the beach.

These and other thoughts traveled through Alice's mind, but thinking was not what she wanted to do now. She had to explain some things to Brent. Chuck Wisner's words: "You're needed here by a very swell guy," came home to her again.

Quickly she changed clothes. Then she sent a wire to Providence. She got her car and started a long drive back to Grosvenor Point. Surely, she thought, Brent would meet her there. She had asked him to. Surely, he would. There was so much to be said and to be explained. She wondered what he would think when he received her wire. And she began thinking over the things she would have to say to him.

Surely—

Consider Your Male Guests When Planning a Party

"I like to spend my leisure time with people with whom I feel perfectly relaxed and at ease," I recently heard a hard-working, and highly successful man remark.

That's a tip-off to hostesses as to how most men feel, I think.

The woman who wants to be a really successful hostess ought not to forget it when she is planning a party.

It will keep her from making a lot of mistakes—so far as her men guests are concerned.

For one thing, it ought to make her extra careful in the selection of guests. A lot of hostesses are enough aware of feminine rivalries so that they wouldn't think of inviting two women who don't get along to the same party—yet don't give any conideration to whether or not their men guests are all congenial.

Women Like Big Parties—Men Don't

Then, too, it ought to keep a hostess from making the mistake of giving a few big parties to get her entertaining over with, instead of a number of small parties where the men can relax and feel they have had some part in the evening's entertainment. A woman may like a large party, because she can show off her new dress to more persons. But men like a group small enough so that they can take part in some real conversation.

And certainly it ought to make a hostess realize the importance of not giving stiff, formal affairs. Women may exclaim over what "beautiful" parties Mrs. So-and-so gives, but men like to feel at home away from home and a party where they can't relax and be themselves is just an ordeal for them.

And last of all, the hostess who realizes that men want to be with people with whom they can feel relaxed and at ease will never make the fatal mistake of trying to impress her guests. Instead she will make every effort to put them at ease and make them feel comfortable and at home.

Light and bright new shoes are keyed to Spring suits and dresses. Repeating the beige tones of the suit modeled (center) are blonde kidskin sling-back pumps trimmed with a small self bow and white punchwork outlining vamp and toe. Slender threads of mauve and raspberry kid wind and cross to form the lacy, high-heeled shoes (upper left) which are ensembled with a chiffon evening gown printed in harmonizing colors. Matching the blue linen sports skirt, flat-heeled linen shoes (lower left) have an open vamp framed by soft shirring. Soft cinnamon suede walking shoes (top right) shown with cinnamon-checked wool skirt owe their airy look to wide straps which cross the instep and provide good support for feet. Strips of yellow, pink and blue patent leather are braided to make the wedge-heeled sandals (lower right). These sandals are modeled with a pastel sheer afternoon dress.

Windsor

Mrs. Leonard Phifer

The Windsor Methodist men in the church basement February 15th at 7:00 o'clock for a contributed supper and program. After the meal a business session was held, at which time these new officers were elected: President, Elbert Marti; vice president, Clyde Hunt; secretary and treasurer, Arnold George. This was followed with an interesting talk on "Building" by Reverend E. F. Dillon of Smithton, who was the guest speaker.

The Sally Gray and Mildred Wright circles of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Windsor Methodist church met in joint session February 17th at 2:00 o'clock in the church basement. Reverend E. W. Bartley, superintendent of the Sedalia district, was the speaker of the afternoon of the subject of Japan. With his talk he had an interesting exhibit of articles showing the customs and traditions of that country.

Reverend Bartley was accompanied to Windsor by Mrs. Bartley and Miss Lulu Monroe of Sedalia. There were other visitors from Calhoun and Brandon churches.

At the close of the meeting a social hour followed with refreshments of coffee and cookies were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Harold Nelson, Mrs. John Wesner, Mrs. Claude Rentle and Mrs. John Chipman to the 47 who were present.

Valentine School Party

The pupils and teacher of the Oak Grove school were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Al Schreiner and daughter, Patty at a Valentine luncheon, February 14. The boys and girls attended school until noon at which time Mr. Schreiner came to the schoolhouse to help transport the children to his home on West Highway 50.

The dining room was decorated with the Valentine motif. The dining table had as a centerpiece a large red cellophane heart with flowers and ivy at the base of it. Lighted candles were on either side of the centerpiece. At each plate was a favor and Valentine sucker. The children were served chili, fruit salad and individual Valentine cupcakes, beautifully decorated.

Those attending the luncheon were: Judy Schlobohm, Carol Turner, Sandra Kirkley, Patty Yeater, Patty Schreiner, Marianne Ehmann, Claude Woolery, David Parkhurst, Mary Ross, Paul Evans, Gwendolyn Ehmann, Richard Parkhurst, Betty Schlobohm, Bobby Schlobohm, Jerry Vanatta, Edith Ross, Kermit Schultz, Marie Mewes, Thelma Martin, and Mrs. D. W. Donath, the teacher.

Mrs. Schreiner was assisted in serving by Mrs. Paul Ehmann.

"NO MORE SLEEPLESS NIGHTS"

"I feel so much better since I no longer have to dread those awful sleepless nights! My 'insomnia' turned out to be due to caffein in the coffee I drank. So I switched to POSTUM and now I get 8 hours of restful sleep every night."

Are sleepless nights, due to "coffee nerves", interfering with your good health? . . . Do you wake up in the morning, feeling tired and logy? . . . Then, try a switch to 100% caffein-free POSTUM. See if you don't enjoy good, natural sleep that makes you feel better and enjoy life more.

SCIENTIFIC FACTS: Both coffee and tea contain caffein. And caffein is a drug that acts upon the brain and central nervous system. Also — in susceptible persons — caffein tend to produce harmful stomach acidity So, while many people can drink coffee or tea without ill-effect, others suffer nervousness, indigestion sleeplessness. But POSTUM contains no caffein or other drug — nothing that can possibly keep you awake!

The Time The Anti-Trust Lawyers Killed Their Own Case!

For ten years the anti-trust lawyers have been attacking the business methods that make it possible to give the public the best quality food at the lowest prices.

In our last ad we told you how Federal Judge W. H. Atwell, at Dallas, threw the anti-trust lawyers and all their inflammatory charges against A&P right out of his court.

But the anti-trust lawyers were not satisfied with decisions against them by three federal judges.

They Appealed to New Orleans

So they appealed Judge Atwell's decision to the three-judge Circuit Court at New Orleans.

One of the three, Judge Curtis L. Waller, agreed with Judge Atwell that the case should be dismissed.

The other two members of the Circuit Court, Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, Jr., and Judge Allen Cox, although saying the case should be tried, agreed that the indictment was vague and contained many allegations which were inflammatory.

They decided that Judge Atwell at Dallas should protect A&P from these inflammatory allegations and could order the anti-trust lawyers to supply the defendants with a bill of particulars.

So the case was back in Dallas again.

Judge Atwell, carrying out the decision of the Circuit Court, struck out the inflammatory matter.

He said that without this inflammatory and prejudicial matter the Grand Jury might never have returned the indictment.

Judge Atwell said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"There are many statements in the indictment which are not at all in violation, and are highly prejudicial and inflammatory."

The anti-trust lawyers objected. They advanced an amazing argument. They said that the removal of their inflammatory allegations (which all four judges had agreed did not belong in the indictment) destroyed their case.

Judge Atwell instructed the anti-trust lawyers to furnish the court with a bill of particulars. In short, he wanted specific charges instead of vague generalities. He set the deadline for furnishing this material at January 15th, 1944.

When the anti-trust lawyers twice asked for more time, pleading sickness among their staff, Judge Atwell extended the time to February 25th because he believed that they were honestly trying, in good faith, to prepare the material he had requested.

Actually, it developed, they were using the time to get ready to drop the case in Dallas and start it in another court.

They Quit in Dallas

On February 26th, while the judge was still waiting for his answer, and without any previous notice to him, the anti-trust lawyers gave a story to the newspapers in Washington, announcing that they were dropping the case in Dallas.

They said that it was their intention "to file a substantially similar suit in an appropriate jurisdiction at an early date."

The "early date" turned out to be the same day.

As soon as one anti-trust lawyer killed the case in Dallas, another anti-trust lawyer filed a new case in Danville, Illinois. This new case made most of the same allegations that had been made and dropped in Dallas; and that are being made against us today.

So now, according to the anti-trust lawyers, all four judges who had ruled on the Dallas case were wrong.

In signing this order he said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"This nolle prosequi does not have the sanction or approval of this court. That is not necessary, nor that the government ask for the court's approval.

"It is, however, a matter that may be presented to the other court and may be of interest to the people at large."

So after their efforts to destroy A&P had failed in Washington, D. C., Wilson, North Carolina, and Dallas, Texas, the anti-trust lawyers moved on to Danville, Illinois.

They were still determined to destroy this company which had brought more and better food at lower cost to millions of American families.

They Were Wrong Three Times Before!

Three times the anti-trust lawyers went into federal courts and made serious and damaging charges against A&P.

Three times federal judges said the anti-trust lawyers were wrong and rendered decisions against them.

In previous ads in this series we told you about these other anti-trust "cases" involving us, which the judges said were not cases at all.

We think you should know about these previous cases, because once again the anti-trust lawyers are making damaging "allegations" that could seriously affect our business if they were believed by the public.

There was the time in Washington, D. C., when they said we and other good American citizens conspired to fix the price of bread in that city.

This was the time Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough ruled that A&P and the other defendants did not even need to put in a defense. He instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty".

It was the time Judge Goldsborough said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"If you were to show this record to any experienced trial lawyer in the world, he would tell you that there was not any evidence at all.

"Honestly, I have never in my over forty years' experience seen tried a case that was as absolutely devoid of evidence as this. That is the honest truth. I have never seen one like it."

There was the time in Wilson, North Carolina, they said we and other good American citizens conspired to fix prices paid farmers for their potatoes.

This was the time Federal Judge C. C. Wyche directed the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty".

It was the time Judge Wyche said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"In my opinion there is no testimony produced from which it can reasonably be inferred that the defendants entered into a combination to depress or lower the price of potatoes.

"I might say that I never tried a case in my life where a greater effort, more work, more investigation had been done, combing almost with a fine-tooth comb to gather evidence.

"But, as was said a long time ago, you can't make brick without straw, and you can't make a case without facts."

There was the time in Dallas, Texas, when they made practically the same "allegations" they are making today.

This was the time Federal Judge W. H. Atwell ruled that the case should not even be tried. He said that the indictment contained inflammatory statements that he would not permit to be presented to a jury.

It was the time Judge Atwell said to the anti-trust lawyers:

"I know of no American rule, and I wish I had the power to underscore the word 'American,' which permits us to try a man because of his size.

"If I thought I was presiding over a court and that I might have to sentence some person because he was a great big fellow, or because he was a Lilliputian, I would feel like resigning. God knows we don't want it ever to occur in America that the size is going to determine whether a man is guilty or innocent."

Red Tape Changes Number

SIERRA MADRE, Calif.—(AP)—The government is building a post office at what should be 309 Sierra Madre St But the number on the building will be 303

Inspector William Lees explained that officials erroneously listed the address as 303 when they mailed approval of the new site "We decided it would be simpler to change the building number than risk involvment in red tape by insisting that the government change the number on its records," he said.

FARRIS FANCY FRYERS ARE WITHOUT PEER

Those who follow the St. Louis and Kansas City markets will note the advanced price on commercially raised fryers. This market price increase is reflected slightly in the retail market.

We purchase our choice Farris Fancy Fryers from commercial growers who raise them the year around. This week we have contracted for 2500 from one of our growers . . . and we can safely say they are of a quality that tops the market!
